Moratorium Vote Expected Today

SEN. JOHNSON WOULD INCLUDE DEBT TO FRANCE

Californian Wants Uncondi- tional Reparations Part of Agreement

FLAYS HOOVER ACTION

Says President Failed to Tell Congress of Terms With French

Washington—(AP)—An attempt to make the one year debt suspension apply not only conditional but unconditional reparations to France will be made in the senate.

Senator Johnson of California, the most outspoken opponent of the moratorium, said today in debate, that he would offer such an amendment.

A little earlier Johnson had charged that the president had failed to tell congress that his original proposal for a suspension of all debts had been changed at the insistence of France to permit payment by Germany of unconditional reparations.

Senate leaders hoped to bring the measure to a vote before adjournment tonight.

Renewing his attack upon the debt holiday, the Californian contended that the agreement for suspension of reparations and war debt payments was put into effect in form different from that to which 68 senators pledged support.

Johnson contended that President Hoover, whom he did not mention by name, negotiated, in effect, a treaty on the moratorium with France and the allies without calling congress into session.

Attack on Hoover

Johnson raised his voice as he warned his colleagues the manner in which the moratorium was approved was "a mode of legislation that will return to plague you in the future."

"But when any man sits in the office of president and seeks to legislate without the formalities provided by the constitution when he seeks to put upon the people the burden of taxation that isn't theirs, in order to relieve Europe, and you tolerate it, you have taken the first step toward international bankers want us to take, the first step toward dictatorship."

"This is the first false step, the entering idea by which an executive may legislate as he sees fit in defiance of the constitution."

Johnson said three New York bank representatives had testified that more than four billions of dollars was invested by Americans in Europe.

"If he is employed, let your eyes center on America and Americans for a brief period, don't be European minded when distress is upon yours and your own. Don't look across the water all the time. Look here at America and Americans."

"One representative of J. P. Morgan and Company told us that one New York bank has $70,000 in German short term securities. Why shouldn't these bankers be for cancellation of the European debts, for a moratorium?"

As the senate went ahead with its debate, the house recessed to await notice that the senate would agree to a recess beginning tomorrow and ending Jan. 4.

Speaker Garner informed the house that even if the senate were unable to act on the Hoover moratorium today, the house would not do any business until Jan. 4.

Body Of Ohio Girl Found In Tenement

Fiend Sought as Slayer of Marian McLean, Missing Since Thursday

Cincinnati, Ohio—(AP)—A basement in a tenement building in the Cincinnati slum district today yielded the body of 6 year-old Marian McLean, who was kidnapped six days ago. She had been attacked and murdered.

The body, bearing evidence of strangulation, was found by Charles Bischoff, an occupant of the tenement, when he went into the cellar to fire the furnace. It was not there, then, he said.

From all appearances it had not been there long—Bischoff having been in the basement last night to fire the furnace. It was not there, then, he said.

The tear stained face of the tiny body indicated that the child had cried considerably before she was killed.

Coroner M. Scott Kearn, one of the first officials to view the body, said the child had not been dead long. Her clothing was torn and there was a small blue mark on her forehead.

No trace had been found of the child's killer. All the city's man hunting power renewed the intensive search for Marian's slayer as soon as the body was reported found.

The cellar where the body was discovered is very dark and is accessible only by a narrow stairway. The child was lying on her back close to the stairway. Marian was clad in the starched nightgown which she wore when she last was seen on Thursday.

Coroner Kearn was of the opinion Marian was killed at some other spot than where the body was found. He believed the abductor, knowing all buildings near the girl's home were to be searched by a hundred firemen, taken from their regular work for that purpose, flung the body into the Twelfth-st building to keep the scene of the slaying a secret.

The coroner was positive Marian had not been dead long.

"Marian's eyes were bloodshot, indicating she had been crying," Kearn said. "Tear drop streaks were plainly seen on her cheeks."

DAWES HEADS U. S. GROUP AT GENEVA

Sen. Swanson to Be Dele- gate—Hoover Also Wants Woman at Conference

Washington—(AP)—Shaping the American delegation to the coming Geneva armaments conference, President Hoover announced today Ambassador Charles G. Dawes would head the American representatives.

White House officials previously had stated that Senator Claude Swanson, Democrat, Virginia, would be a delegate.

At the same time today, Mr. Hoover disclosed an intention to appoint a woman member. Although her name was not mentioned he had said he was negotiating with a "clad of qualities and prominence" whether she could accept.

Several women's organizations with headquarters in Washington are understood to have put forward the name of Judge Florence E. Allen of the United States Circuit court in Ohio.

One of those reckoned upon as certain to accompany the American members, was withdrawn today from the list. A place was offered Henry P. Fletcher, former chairman of the tariff commission, but he decided he was unable to accept.

HIGHER LEVEL ORDER FOR LAKE IS CONFIRMED

Government Engineers Ap- prove War Department's Order of 21 1/4 Inches

Confirmation of the U. S. War department's order of last spring which established a maximum level of 21 1/4 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam for Lake Winnebago has been made in a ruling issued by government engineers at Milwaukee, it was learned here today.

Announcement of the decision came as a surprise to communities in the Fox river valley, inasmuch as such a long period has elapsed since the original order was made by the department. Confirmation of the order was anticipated by cities in this vicinity, but until today's announcement nothing had been heard of the department's action. It was learned here that the decision was made a matter of record two months ago.

The controversy between upper and lower river valley cities is one of long standing, and according to information received from Allan H. Tripp, Oshkosh, president of the association for the Relief of High Water, will not end with the order of the department.

League Favors Level

Solution to the problems of lower river valley cities was brought to a head at a hearing in Menasha several months ago when the Fox River Municipalities league entered the fight in favor of the 21-inch level.

Representatives of the league pointed out at the hearing, that such a level is necessary to safeguard the health of communities on the lower river. Unsanitary conditions arising from the many dead fish floating on the surface of the river due to low water was pictured in arguments by league representatives.

Unemployment conditions also arose from low water in the summer months, it was stated. Many mills were forced to cease full time operations and were obliged to lay off from 40 to 50 men, representatives said.

"The municipalities league will continue to stand in favor of the higher river level and is ready to back arguments presented at the last Menasha hearing," Mayor B. W. Fargo, Kaukauna, league president, said.

OVER $130,000 COLLECTED BY BISHOP CANNON

Only $58,558 Reported to Comply With Law. Senate Probe Group Claims

Washington—(AP)—The senate was informed by its special committee funds investigating committee today that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., collected more than $130,000 in the anti-Smith Democratic campaign of 1928, but reported only $58,558 in accordance with law.

Summarizing its lengthy inquiry into handling of money by the bishop, the committee reported that it revealed "numerous apparent violations of the federal corrupt practices act and many 'unexplained discrepancies' between the bank accounts in which the funds were deposited and the reports made to the clerk of the house. All the money collected, it said, should have been accounted for under the law.

It was this report, upon which Bishop Cannon yesterday asked the senate to withhold judgment until he has had an opportunity to reply. The bishop now is fighting an indictment for violation of the corrupt practices act in the District of Columbia Supreme court.

The committee said Bishop Cannon himself handled a large part of the funds and deposited them in accounts upon which he alone was able to draw checks.

Nature of Deposits

The committee reported $183,670 of political contributions received by Cannon were placed on deposit to the credit of "James Cannon, Jr." or "James Cannon, Jr., executive" prior to the date of the general election.

Kills Groves Measure By 15 To 14 Vote

Madison—(AP)—The state senate defeated the Groves bill for stabilization of employment and industry by a vote of 15 to 14 today, refusing to commit in the action of the assembly which had passed the measure.

The bill called for the establishment of a commission to regulate hours of work when unemployment exists or threatens, and other permitting the organizations of boards of trades among the various industries, whose stabilization policies would be enforced by the department of agriculture and markets.

The author of the measure, Assemblyman Harold M. Groves, Madison, also drafted the unemployment insurance bill which has the endorsement of Governor La Follette.

Industrial leaders opposed both measures during the public hearings, claiming an unworkable interference at this time with the prerogatives of industry to meet its own problems in caring for unemployment. J. J. Handley, secretary of the State Federation of Labor, also opposed the stabilization bill in the form in which it was drawn.

The bill measure was approved in the assembly 41 to 42. Its defeat in the senate came without any debate. The 15 to 14 vote followed a motion by Senator George Blanchard, Education, for indefinite postponement and non-concurrence.

The action indicated that the stabilization plan is dead, although the senate still has before it a duplicate of the Groves bill, introduced by Senator Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee. This has been tabled and may come to a vote later.

ROOF OF VATICAN LIBRARY WING FALLS

One Dead, Four Missing— Days Required to Clear Away Wreckage

Vatican City—(AP)—One person was known to have been killed and at least four were reported missing when the roof of a 200 foot wing of the Vatican library fell through the roof of the building.

The accident occurred only a few minutes after the library had been closed for the day, but five men were reported injured. Four of them were working on the roof when it fell, and the other was on the ground.

The roof fell in with a tremendous crash, sending the debris of the roof and the roof of the library falling into the library below.

Two Kansas Men Arrested In Kidnaping Of Mrs. Donnelly

LAUNDRY MARK USED TO TRACE PAIR IN PLOT

Prisoners Admit Supplying Cottage to Four Others in Abduction

Kansas City—(AP)—A laundry mark has led to the arrest of two Kansas dairy farmers as minor participants in the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, millionaire garment manufacturer. Police said they had confessed.

Gathering together loose ends of the abduction plot, which ended in the mysterious release of the victim and George Blair, her Negro chauffeur, without the payment of the demanded $75,000 ransom, officers sought four other men, reputed to have actually executed the plot.

The prisoners, farmers in Wyandotte-co, west of Kansas City, allegedly confessed following their arrest late last night that they had supplied the shabby four room rural cottage in which Mrs. Donnelly was held from last Wednesday until Friday.

Identification of the cottage by the woman manufacturer was followed immediately by the arrest of two men, one of whom is believed to be the man who was released.

The cottage was located by detectives who traced a laundry mark on a towel given Mrs. Donnelly by her abductors. She wrapped the towel about her neck and still wears it when she was released. The mark was traced to Emil G. Bunker, who owns the cottage leased by Scheidt.

Holiday Called Leader

Officers said Browning named Marshall DePew, also of Holiday, as the leader. DePew, according to a statement released under Browning's signature, suggested two months ago that Browning locate an isolated house in which Paul Donnelly, husband of Mrs. Donnelly, could be held pending the payment of ransom.

After a promise of $7,500 Browning is alleged to have arranged with Scheidt for the use of the latter's cottage. The building, located near Bonner Springs, is situated in a wooded 20-acre tract, reached by a country lane. Scheidt was declared to have been promised $1,000 for the use of the house.

Other participants in the actual kidnaping, which took place in the driveway of Mrs. Donnelly's south side home in Kansas City, were said in Browning's statement to include two men from the east. The statement related that Browning beamed the men to be from New York.

Both Browning and Scheidt were declared by the police to have been the intended victims. The first knowledge that Browning had that a woman was involved, according to his statement, was gleaned from a newspaper account of the abduction.

Two Were Italians

Scheidt, in a statement released by police under his signature, said he lived at his cottage during Mrs. Donnelly's captivity and believed two of the four kidnapers to be Italians. The statement is believed to throw additional light on the peculiar release of the millionaire and her chauffeur.

After receipt Thursday morning by James Taylor, Mrs. Donnelly's attorney, of two letters she wrote at the commands of the abductors, former Senator James A. Reed was called into the case. Reed gave the personal guarantee that the money would be paid if the hostage was released unharmed.

He added, however, that all of Mr. Donnelly's money, and all of his time, would be used in prosecuting the guilty men if the wealthy women's garment manufacturer was harmed.

Shortly afterward word spread rapidly among city's criminal element that a "mob" not concerned in the kidnaping, was seeking to effect the victim's release.

Early Friday morning, Mrs. Donnelly and her chauffeur were released on a dark Kansas City, Kas., street by several men who drove them there from the kidnappers' rendezvous in a motor car. Before their release the victims were told "somebody" had made "the take" and that some "hot" of town men were concerned.

Scheidt, in his statement, related that three masked men had approached the cottage in an automobile, talked to the men who were guarding the prisoners, entered the house, and soon departed with Mrs. Donnelly and the Negro.

Waits in Vain — Child Murdered

The body of Marian McLean, 6-year-old Cincinnati, Ohio, girl who was kidnaped last Thursday, was found today. In the basement of a tenement building near her home. The picture above shows Mrs. Mildred McLean, mother of the slain girl, is the child's playmate, as she waited with the Christmas toys for news of her daughter.

Defends Authenticity Of Famous Kensington Stone

Sheboygan—(AP)—Possible authenticity of the famous Kensington stone, which would establish that Norsemen beat Columbus to America by a hundred years or more, is defended in a book just published by H. R. Holand of Ephraim, Wis.

The stone was found in 1898 on the farm of Olof Ohman near Kensington, Minn. It bore an inscription saying it was carved by a party of Swedes and Norwegians in 1362. Philologists, however, examined it for several years and adjudged it a clumsy fraud. Ohman then used the stone for nine years as a doorstop to his granary.

Holand, a student of runes and old Norse, took it to his home and translated the inscriptions. The one on the face of the stone read: "We are 8 Goths (Swedes) and 22 Norwegians on an exploration journey from Vinland over the west. We had camp by 2 skerries one day's journey north from this stone. We were out and fished one day. After we came home we found 10 of our men red with blood and dead. Ave Maria Save us from evil!"

On the edge of the stone: "We have 10 of our party by the sea to look after our ships (or ship) 14 days journey from this island year 1362."

Holand says it has been established that there was a Norse expedition in American waters in 1350, and in the years 1355 to 1364 Paul Knutson's mission required him to explore the fertile countries further west, that is, America. The belief is expressed that Knutson's expedition came down from Hudson Bay and entered Minnesota by way of the Nelson river.

The linguistic aspect of the inscriptions caused doubt of the inscriptions' authenticity, but Holand tries to clear this doubt by establishing conditions in Norway and Sweden in the 14th century, and the probable linguistic habits of the supposed members of the expedition believed responsible for the stone.

In an appendix to his book, Holand says: "The improbability of a small band of explorers being able to reach the very heart of the continent in the fourteenth century, when the Indians, presumably, were very numerous, is too great to be credible."

"This, in substance x x x represents the first reaction against the inscriptions. If the runemaster had been wise enough to have left his record on the Atlantic seaboard, he would have saved much criticism. The Norsemen are known to have visited the Atlantic coast."

WARM WEATHER DAMAGES ROADS

Order Trucks and Grading Machines Out to Make Improvements

Warm weather the last few days has caused frost spots to develop in some of the county's unpaved highways. Tuesday it was necessary for P. R. Appleton, highway commissioner, to order eight grading machines and four trucks equipped with blades to start work on the roads to remove the rough spots. The trucks had been fitted with snow plows and put in readiness for the annual snow removal battle, but it was necessary to dismantle this equipment and refit the trucks with blades so they could do the smoothing work.

Mr. Appleton said the late warm weather has caused an unusual situation, where patrolmen grade roads so late in December. He added, however, that the warm spell might prove advantageous because if a cold snap followed the work of the patrolmen the roads would be smooth and would remain so all winter.

The eight graders and four trucks will be kept on duty on the roads as long as the warm weather continues, Mr. Appleton said.

Wisconsin Weather

Mostly cloudy, slightly cooler in south central portion tonight; Wednesday probably fair.

General Weather

Rain occurred over practically all of the central and eastern states during the last 24 hours, being light over the north central states but moderate to heavy over the Ohio valley and sections of the south. Rain, mist and fog are prevailing generally from the upper Mississippi valley to the Great Lakes this morning, and rain is also falling over the lake region, New England states and central Canada. Low pressure extending from central Canada downward over the whole middle west is causing temperatures to remain moderate over practically the whole country although it has gotten somewhat colder over the mountain regions since yesterday. Cloudy weather is expected to continue in this section tonight and most of Wednesday, with slight change in temperature.

WYOMING TO MARK COVERED WAGON TRAIL

Cheyenne, Wyo.—(AP)—Trails followed through Wyoming by the pony express and the immigrants' covered wagons are to be marked with plaques, so that modern travelers who seek over the same routes nowadays in comfortable automobiles can take note.

A figure of a pony express rider will be embossed on each of the plaques marking the trail over which William F. "Buffalo Bill" Cody, and other famous pioneer mail carriers rode during the years 1860-1862.

A covered wagon will be the distinctive marking on the plaques which will be placed at intervals along the routes followed by the immigrants.

CHILDREN SING AT COMMUNITY TREE

Traffic Is Blocked Off from College-ave During Evening Program

The misty rain threw a haze over two opposite worlds Monday night as 300 schoolchildren sang old, old Christmas melodies at the Community Christmas tree. Modern electric signs blazed and flashed up and down the avenue, the traffic policeman's incessant whistle could be heard as he directed traffic away from the corner area while the melodies of "Silent Night, Holy Night" and the gentle round, "Oh How Lovely is the Evening," intermingled with the hubbub, sung by the youthful chorus under the direction of Dr. Earl L. Baker.

The songs were thrown upon a screen on the side of the buildings to enable everyone to follow the songs. The Junior high school choruses presented familiar melodies such as "Deck the Halls," "Joy to the World," "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "The Bells Have Told" and "Jingle Bells."

The third of the series of Community programs will be given tonight by the Appleton Maennerchor, presenting a program of Old German Christmas songs. The massed choirs of all Appleton churches will appear in an hour's program under Dean Carl J. Waterman of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, Wednesday night.

College-ave is blocked off at 7 o'clock every night for the evening's program so that people may gather in the street around the tree. Boy Scouts are assisting the police in controlling the crowds.

NAMES OF NEEDY FAMILIES WILL BE AVAILABLE

Appleton persons desiring to donate Christmas baskets to needy families in the city may call the secretary of the Appleton Welfare and Relief council, Judge Fred V. Heinemann, president of the council, said this morning that he had given instruction to the secretary to furnish names and addresses of needy families to those desiring to give Christmas baskets. He said he already has received indications from many citizens who plan to make anonymous donations of Christmas baskets and he expects that scores of needy families in the city would be taken care of in this manner.

HIGHWAY COMMITTEE WILL MEET MONDAY

The county highway committee will meet Monday at the highway office at the courthouse, according to F. R. Appleton, highway commissioner. Snow removal plans will be discussed and other routine business matters transacted.

CONDITION IMPROVES

The condition of Raymond Lodholz, route 1, Appleton, whose leg was amputated 10 days ago, is improving, according to the attending physician. Amputation of the leg was necessary when the knee became badly infected after an injury. The youth was kicked by a cow several months ago, but the injury did not appear serious until two weeks ago. He is confined to St. Elizabeth hospital.

The Standard for Dressed Poultry in Appleton call for the intestines to be drawn at time of killing, removing any possibility of the danger of selling diseased Poultry.

There is and probably always will be stores advertising Dressed Poultry, at a considerable reduction in price that contain all this waste (Entrails and Head) that you pay for but can not use.

THE BONINI FOOD MARKETS

Supply of Christmas Poultry have all been killed this week. Entrails drawn when killed and heads off. These Birds will be on display in our Poultry Cooler and we feel there is nothing in this Valley that will compare with it. We would appreciate the privilege of showing our Poultry Selection regardless of whether you buy or not.

105,265 Pieces Of Outgoing First Class Mail Handled In Day

FEWER PARCELS BEING RECEIVED BY PEOPLE HERE

First Class Mail Total, However, Is Slightly Under Last Year

With a total of 105,265 pieces of first class mail being put through the cancelling machine at the Appleton post office yesterday, a new high mark was set, according to postal officials. It is the first time in the history of the post office here, the postal officials said, that the number of cancellations passed 100,000 in a single day.

A new record in postal receipts also was set yesterday when $2,457 was realized from sale of stamps, envelopes and other supplies. The previous high record was established in 1929 when $2,100 was received.

However, the postal officials point out, although yesterday was the busiest day and post office ever had from that standpoint, the number of parcels and packages being received here is far below the number received in previous years. The officials pointed out, that the Christmas rush started much later this year than last so that despite the fact that a new record was set yesterday, the total for the year is still far less than in 1930.

At the present time the department is using 19 trucks in the delivery of parcels. This is six trucks more than is ordinarily used. Each of the 19 trucks has a helper. This means there are 38 extra men at work delivering parcels. The department also has engaged 19 extra clerks for work inside the office and three additional special delivery service to augment the three regulars. Another special delivery messenger will be added to the force tomorrow.

10 Trucks In Use
The 10 trucks and helpers also were on duty yesterday and most of the trucks were in use until 6 o'clock in the afternoon. It was expected they would be able to finish their work today by 6 o'clock. Last year there were more trucks, and some of the truckmen were required to work at night.

This year, as in previous years, the handling of parcels in the basement of the post office. Here the packages are sorted and placed in piles for the various routes covered by the trucks. The sorting clerks start work at 5:30 in the morning to have enough of the parcels sorted and ready for the beginning of delivery service at 7 o'clock.

In five days of the Christmas rush last year, from Dec. 17 through Dec. 21, the total number of pieces of first class mail cancelled here was 229,565, compared to 221,715 in the same five days this year. However, on Dec. 22 and 23 last year the department handled 92,375 and 96,659 pieces, respectively and postal officials thought it was unlikely that the total for today and tomorrow would reach those proportions.

The number for each of the five days in 1930 was as follows: Dec. 17, 22,230; Dec. 18, 32,250; Dec. 19, 49,500; Dec. 20, 77,735; and Dec. 21, 32,355. This year the number of pieces of mail handled on the same five days was as follows: Dec. 17, 33,365; Dec. 18, 25,465; Dec. 19, 37,790; Dec. 20, 17,855; and Dec. 21, 165,265.

TRAINMEN OUTLINE STAND AT PARLEY

Six Hour Day, Five Day Week in Platform for Negotiations

Cleveland (AP)—The six hour day, five day week, and wages sufficient to permit workers to be "useful consumers," will be the platform of A. V. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in the coming railroad wage negotiations.

Whitney gave the first complete exposition of his views in a statement prepared today for publication in the brotherhood's magazine.

The president of this large brotherhood blamed business stagnation and unemployment suffering, in large part, upon "over-concentration" of wealth.

He recalled that when the railroad industry established the eight-hour day, other industries followed the example, with the result that all industries were benefited, and said if the railroads would now establish the six-hour day and five-day week they would set a movement which would revitalize consuming power and the nation's industries.

"Relief can come only from a revitalization of mass consuming power, and this can never be accomplished by cutting wages," Whitney said.

WALTONS DISCUSS VISIT OF NATIONAL PRESIDENT

The coming visit of Dr. Preston M. Bradley, Chicago, national Isaak Walton league president, to Appleton next month will be discussed at a meeting of Appleton chapter officers and directors at 7:30 tonight at Conway hall.

The January meeting will be open to all members of the Walton league and all sportsmen in the county. Dr. Max Goeres is president of Appleton chapter, and Ed W. Shannon is secretary and treasurer.

WILL COLLECT CLOTHING IN OUTAGAMIE-CO

County-wide Drive Is Planned by County Clerk and Probation Officer

A county-wide drive to obtain donations of clothing, food and other articles for distribution among the needy families of Outagamie-co during the winter has been planned by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, and Anton Jansen, county probation officer.

Mr. Jansen and Mr. Hantschel are enlisting the aid of all town and village chairmen and of the rural schools in their drive. A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, has sent a letter to his teachers urging them to cooperate.

Also aiding in the drive will be the boys scouts in Kaukauna, Seymour, Black Creek and Kimberly. In these four places the collection of materials will be done by the scouts under supervision of their local leaders. In all the other towns and villages Mr. Jansen is asking the town and village chairmen to act as leaders of the drive.

The chairmen are requested to visit each rural school teacher in their territory and ask the teachers to spread the word of the drive by having the pupils carry the message to their homes. They will carry donated articles to their schools and the county headquarters will send for the donated goods with a truck.

Teachers also are urged by Mr. Meating to canvass the district to determine the needy families and their exact wants so these can be supplied from the county headquarters at the courthouse here.

Mr. Hantschel and Mr. Jansen are supervising the collection, sorting, cleaning and distribution of the donated materials. The materials are stored in a special room in the basement of the courthouse. This room was constructed especially for this purpose at the order of the county board.

Already the drive leaders said they have received many donations, but there is still a great need for clothing and bedding. There is a special demand for children's clothing and shoes.

The county officers also are working on a plan to help only needy families can secure help. At the present time a family seeking help from the county must secure from their town or village chairman a written order authorizing the extension of aid. Cases which are given aid are first investigated by Mr. Jansen.

$1,500 DAMAGE CAUSED AT RESIDENCE BY FIRE

Damage estimated at $1,500 was caused to a vacant residence at 602 E. Pacific-st about 9 o'clock this morning when fire started from an overloaded furnace. The residence is owned by Dr. J. B. MacLaren. The blaze was first noticed by neighbors who summoned the fire department. The firemen battled the flames for about an hour with water and chemicals and succeeded in keeping them from breaking through the roof, although the fire did burn through from the basement to the attic. The loss is covered by insurance.

STOCK STOLEN AT BEAR CREEK STORE

Merchandise Worth Approximately $800 Is Taken, Owner Reports

The Bear Creek Mercantile store-owned by C. L. Reiser, was burglarized Monday night of about $800 worth of Christmas stock when thieves broke into the office window at the back of the store. The window was found open and it is believed the robbers made their escape through the warehouse door which is bolted on the inside.

Most of the stolen goods were taken from the dry goods part of the store, with only three 100 pound sacks of sugar missing this morning in the grocery department. The missing items, according to Mr. Reiser, includes 12 woolen jackets, trousers, 12 woolen bed blankets, 13 dozen neckties, five dozen ladies' hosiery, several pieces of women's lingerie, women's purses and many small articles.

Sheriff John Lappen of Appleton and Alfred Lorge, village marshal, are investigating.

ACTIVITIES IN CHURCHES TURN TO CHRISTMAS

Christmas Eve Programs, Christmas Day Services Hold Attention

All church activities this week give way to Christmas eve programs and Christmas day services. Most of the churches will hold the age-old Christmas programs of songs and recitations with Christmas trees, and on Christmas morning services will be held in many of the churches. Holy Communion will be administered at 9 o'clock Christmas at All Saints church, and on Saturday, St. Stephens day, there will be a Holy Communion service at the same time. A midnight service will be held at 11:30 Thursday evening, with Dr. L. D. Utta preaching on The First Christmas. Sunday morning he talked on The Balance, stressing the fact that the name of Christ had lived among people for centuries. St. Thomas day was observed on Monday and the Church School party will be held Tuesday evening. The carollers of All Saints church are singing every evening from the balcony of the Zuehlke building, and on Christmas eve they will sing carols to the shut ins of the parish.

Conference Called
A quarterly conference of Emmanuel Evangelical church, with the Rev. Philipp Schneider in charge, will be held Wednesday evening, following the preparatory service for Holy Communion. A White Gifts program will be held at 7:30 Thursday evening, and Friday morning a Christmas service will be held at 10 o'clock. The Rev. G. H. Elton preached on The Prince of Peace Sunday morning.

The Rev. D. E. Bosserman preached at the county asylum Sunday afternoon, and the Trinity English Lutheran church choir sang. The Sunday School Christmas program will be held at 7:30 Thursday evening, and the Christmas day service will be at 9 o'clock Thursday morning. Mr. Bosserman preached on John's Testimony of Jesus Sunday morning.

Tuesday evening the children of the Sunday School and their parents will be guests of Memorial Presbyterian church at a supper and Christmas party. "The First Christmas," a nativity play, was given at the 11 o'clock services Sunday morning.

A children's service will be held at 7 o'clock Christmas eve at St. Matthew church, and regular German and English services will be held Christmas day. A special meeting of the congregation will be held Monday evening. The Rev. Philip A. C. Froehke preached on The Beautiful Savior Sunday morning.

Last Advent Service
At the fourth and last Advent service Sunday morning, the Rev. Theodore Marth preached on the text, "In what spirit are we to approach the Holy Christmas festival. Announcements for Holy Communion are to be received from 2 to 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and from 7 to 8 o'clock tonight. Communion will be administered at a German service at 10:35 Sunday morning, and at an English service at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. The Christmas program will be held at 7 o'clock Christmas eve.

A Christmas pageant will be presented at the Reformed church at 7:15 Thursday evening, and there will be a German worship service Christmas morning. Holy Communion will be celebrated Sunday morning, with special offering for the mission house. The Rev. E. F. Franz preached on The Spirit of Christmas Sunday morning.

The Methodist Christmas tree program will be held Thursday evening. Sunday afternoon the choir of the church and the Wesleyan Players presented the nativity play, "A Mystery for Christmas in the Medieval Manner." In the evening the high school Epworth league sang carols about town, and on Monday evening the league held its Christmas party. The Junior High School department will hold its party Tuesday evening. Holy Communion was administered at the morning service at the Methodist church.

Pageant Presented

"The Pageant of the Three Kings" was given at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon, and in the morning Christmas service, at which Dr. H. E. Peabody preached a Christmas sermon. Circle No. 3 of the Congregational church will sponsor a twilight musicale at Peabody hall Sunday afternoon.

The children's program at St. Paul Evangelical church will be held at 7:30 Christmas eve, and on Christmas morning there will be held an English service at 9 o'clock, and a German service at 10:30. Second Christmas day services will be held in German, at 10:15 Saturday morning. The sermon subject at St. Paul church Sunday morning was What God Gives You.

"The Awakening," a Christmas Cantata, was held at the Baptist church Sunday morning and in the evening a White Gift service was held. The Church School Christmas program will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

When the Christ Child Comes was the subject of the sermon delivered by the Rev. W. R. Wetzel at St. John church Sunday morning. The Christmas program will be held at 7 o'clock Thursday evening.

"The Birthday of Jesus Christ" will be the sermon subject at the Christmas day service at Mount Olive Lutheran church at 10:15 Friday morning. The children's program will be held at 7 o'clock Thursday evening. The Rev. E. E. Ziesemer preached on God's Perfect Christmas Gift to the World Sunday morning.

The Christmas eve exercises at First English Lutheran church will be held at 7:15 and the Christmas day service will be at 10 o'clock. The Rev. P. C. Renter preached on The Meaning of Christmas Sunday morning, and a collection of articles for Christmas baskets for needy fam-

7 SHIRTS AND 5 PAIRS OF TROUSERS SAVE MAN'S LIFE

The fact that he was wearing five pairs of trousers and seven shirts probably saved the life of Raymond Moch, 23, Larson, last night. Larson was found in a ditch on Highway 26 six miles north of New London suffering from severe injuries which New London officials believe were caused by a hit-and-run driver.

Mrs. James Flanagan, near whose home Larson was found, heard his moans and telephoned her husband at the Walter Derber farm nearby. Derber and Flanagan investigated and found Larson in the ditch. His overshoes were found in the ditch on the opposite side of the road.

Larson was taken to a hospital at New London where it was found that he was suffering from two severe scalp wounds and an injured hip. New London police started an investigation.

WINTER FAILS TO ARRIVE ON APPOINTED DAY

Balmy Breezes Herald Official Opening of New Season

Judging from balmy breezes which blew early Tuesday winter weather has been delayed. Tuesday marked the official opening of winter, but instead, moderate temperatures prevailed and warm breezes from the southwest were blowing in this direction.

As if to further conceal the arrival of Old King Winter, the weatherman predicts rain for Tuesday night and Wednesday. Rain fell over most of the state during the past 24 hours, according to reports received here.

In addition to being the first day of winter, Tuesday was the shortest day of the year, with the sun rising at 7:24 this morning and setting at 4:24 this afternoon.

Old King Winter is scheduled to arrive annually at the winter solstice, the time when the sun is nearest the south pole. At that time the world's axis is tilted its full 23 degrees, 17 minutes so the northern continents receive the least amount of heat. From Dec. 22 until June 21, the days will be longer. On March 21 night and day will be exactly the same length according to meteorologists.

Skating, skiing and other winter sports have been "out" so far this winter, due to the lack of snow and ice. As yet city skating rinks haven't been flooded, and the only skating reported has been on Lake Winnebago and various ponds in the city.

Early this month Lake Winnebago was frozen over, but balmy breezes from the south brought a crack up on Dec. 9. Since that time the lake has been partially covered with an other layer of ice about three inches thick, but if balmy weather continues it would probably crack up again.

At 6 o'clock Tuesday morning the mercury registered 33 degrees above zero, the highest morning temperature this month. At noon it registered 43 degrees above.

BIRTHS

A son was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. James Lytle, Jr., Chippewa Falls, Mrs. Lytle was formerly Miss Edith Meyer of Appleton.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Whitefoot, 537 N. Mason-st, Saturday.

A son was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Germaine, 693 S. Douglas-st, at St. Elizabeth hospital.

A daughter was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Buboltz of Hibbert, Mrs. Buboltz was formerly Miss Helen Goetz of this city.

Building Permits

One building permit was issued Monday by John N. Weiland, building inspector. It was granted to L. F. Knickerbocker, 210 N. Park-ave, two car garage and remodel residence, cost $2,490.

Work was made during the Sunday school hour.

A special Christmas service will be held at the Full Gospel tabernacle at 9:30 Friday morning. The Sunday morning sermon subject at the tabernacle was The Christian's Armor, and in the evening, Life in Lock.

tion in 1923 and "remained on deposit to the credit of such accounts for considerable periods subsequent to the election."

The committee further stated "It would appear reasonable" from previous testimony of Bishop Cannon that a safe-deposit box in the American National bank of Richmond, Va., "was used as a depository for some of the large amounts of cash which were received as campaign contributions, a total of $75,000 in cash having been received from E. C. Jameson alone.

Jameson, New York financier and Republican, contributed $65,300 to Bishop Cannon.

The committee report, submitted to the senate today by Chairman Lyre, recited the refusal of Miss Ada L. Burroughs, treasurer, and the Rev. J. Sidney Peters, secretary, of the Anti-Smith committee, to testify. However, it withheld a recommendation of action against them pending a court decision which is to be rendered on a demurrer challenging jurisdiction of the committee.

Paid Off "Deficit"
"Mr. Peters' testimony was particularly desired by the committee," said the report, "in order to establish the facts with reference to the collection by mail of contributions to pay off an alleged deficit of some $4,500, which was more than covered by two contributions totaling $7,300 made by Mr. E. C. Jameson subsequent to the close of the campaign."

The report on the Cannon inquiry was 19 printed pages in length. It told the story of the 10 bank accounts maintained by the Bishop during the 1923 campaign and sought to trace the funds from one account to another and to their ultimate destination. A chart to show this movement of funds was attached.

Referring to "loans" refunded to Bishop Cannon from Anti-Smith funds, the committee states "It may be noted that the report which had been filed by Miss Burroughs under date of Dec. 31, 1923, had listed no unpaid obligations and had stated the amount due on loans was $7,004.21 whereas on Feb. 11, 1924, 11 unpaid refunds amounting to $17,393.11 were listed as having been paid to Bishop Cannon."

The committee further noted a repayment of a "loan" of $5,000 to the Anti-Smith Democrats of North Carolina which it said "is clear did not represent a personal advance of funds by Bishop Cannon."

Quoting the testimony of district workers in Virginia for the anti-Smith Democrats, the committee knew of no separate Virginia committee nor of any considerable amounts of money sent into their districts by Bishop Cannon. The committee concluded "there was no separately organized committee of Virginia Democrats."

WOMAN FOUND DEAD BESIDE GAS RANGE

Coroner Frank Hodek Declares Death Is Clear Case of Suicide

Mrs. William Moderson, 23, Green Bay, a former resident of Appleton, died of asphyxiation in the kitchen of her residence at Green Bay Sunday evening. Coroner Frank Hodek of Brown-co said there would be no inquest, as it was clearly a case of suicide. Mrs. Moderson formerly was Miss Elizabeth Londo of Ironwood, Mich.

Apparently Mrs. Moderson changed her mind before she died, because her last act had been to close the burners of the gas range in the kitchen before she collapsed. Mr. Moderson said his wife had been despondent over ill-health and the prospect of undergoing an operation. Efforts of a physician and a fire department rescue squad to revive Mrs. Moderson failed.

Sunday afternoon Mrs. Moderson sent her four-year-old son for an auto to ride with Mr. and Mrs. Emil Roeser, owners of the house who live on the first floor. When the Roesers returned they found the door locked and summoned Mr. Moderson. When an entrance was gained Mrs. Moderson was found on the floor beside the stove.

AN ANCIENT SCARECROW.

Senator Johnson, in opposing the moratorium extended to our European creditor nations, envisaged strong financial interests favoring it because of "the securities held by private bankers," and made the claim that American bankers are the owners of most of the foreign bonds so generously sold in this country in the last ten years.

As often as this claim is made it is exploded. It seldom makes any headway with those who have become familiar with the practices prevailing in banking circles or in the underwriting of securities.

Our bankers have underwritten but few, very few, of these foreign securities. They have been underwritten by brokers or, more properly, bond or security houses.

They are not largely held by bankers. They are held by the people generally.

In refuting a similar assertion made some four years ago the late Senator Morrow, in his painstaking way, went to the trouble of getting the exact facts. He picked out a German, an Austrian, a Belgian and an Argentine bond issue. Together they totalled $380,000,000.

He then traced the sale of these bonds by the underwriting houses, and, with the assistance of the trust companies to whom interest was paid and therefore to whom the coupons were sent for collection, he ascertained that the mentioned issues were held by 104,713 people in this country. This made the average holding a little over $3,000. He also ascertained that nearly 90 per cent of the sales were made to investors who purchased $5,000 or less.

Bond salesmen found that sentiment played a considerable part in the sale of these bonds in this country. People of German extraction bought German bonds; Belgians, Belgian bonds; Polish, Polish bonds, and so on.

It has for long been a favorite political boggy argument to declare that the "great bankers" were in favor of some proposition as though that were a reason to be advanced against it. Through recent grief and torment the people are coming to realize that bankers most often represent depositors and that their interests are quite mutual.

Of course, Senator Johnson did not try or expect to be exact. He has ridden a hobby in respect to our foreign affairs since the war. He takes the California slant which sees nothing but Japs on every hand.

It is not accurate to merely say that the senator's sight is clouded in these affairs. It has become entirely blind.

"THE KING IS DEAD."

"Legs" Diamond lived to drink a steaming toast of grog on his 33rd birthday, surrounded by his toothsome, leering cronies.

It was a ripe old age for a gangster chief.

But the passing of this bloody and notorious mobster is a worthy subject for it casts a dark reflection upon the society of which we are all a part.

Before prohibition had fleetingly lined his pockets with gold he was convicted of burglary and served a reformatory term. For desertion and theft in the army he was sent up for a year but that was by a military court martial against which specious pleas, crocodile tears and the influence of gold have always been singularly unavailing.

Otherwise he had been arrested 23 times, 5 for murder, though convicted but once, for a violation of the Volstead act. At the time of his "final party" he was out on bail pending appeal from a four year sentence for the Volstead violation.

Before prohibition we had gangs of course, most of them of neighborhood loafers. Unsolved crimes were nearly as scarce as teeth in a hen. "Jim the Penman" characterized the craft of the underworld. The public was generally aghast at any serious offense. We certainly didn't have thousands of men swiftly coursing the streets in high powered cars with clots of human blood upon their hands, nor ambulances clanging along in their wake picking up the human debris.

The cause of the reproach upon our system in a city like New York is not difficult to find. Forty thousand speakeasies, across whose mahogany bars roll from 3 to 4 million dollars a day, provide a gigantic commercial stake. Dishonest officials are the first in the "take". They reap a hundred million a year. How many hundreds of millions are taken by various gangs throughout the country can never be accurately known. Against this closely knit, secretive, vicious and deadly system the United States appropriates about 40 million dollars annually with which it succeeds in apprehending a few weak hangers-on, most of whom are probably tipped off by leading gangsters for trying to muscle in.

Here we have before us as plainly as the horn on the face of a rhinoceros the cause and the nourishment of the overlords of the criminal world.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S RESIGNATION

Coming as it does at a time of serious moment to China, the resignation of Chiang Kai-shek, President of the Nanking Nationalist government, may seem unfortunate. For this self-made man, a remarkable world figure, has been responsible for more Chinese unity than has existed for a generation. Some of this unity has been the result of his military genius and power, but still more can be credited to his statesmanship, foresight and patriotic desire for a united China. He has been the strongest, steadiest and sanest Chinese statesman who has arisen in recent years.

Chiang Kai-shek deserves credit for bringing Manchuria within the scope of Chinese national consciousness through an alliance with the young Marshal Chang Hseuh-liang, who also has been inspired with true zeal for Chinese unity.

Yet he has been unsuccessful in harmonizing his Nanking government with the Cantonese seceders in South China, hotbed of revolution, and his resignation has repeatedly been insisted upon by the Canton leaders as a prerequisite to any possible union.

His resignation comes as a result of a conference with Canton leaders in Shanghai, coupled with dissatisfaction of the manner in which the Nationalist government has handled the Sino-Japanese dispute as forcibly expressed by thousands of Chinese students congregated in Nanking.

The new coalition government is expected to assume the character of European cabinet governments with no personal dictator. Its future policy as to Japanese encroachment is not entirely clear, yet the new Cantonese leaders doubtless have sufficient sense of responsibility to realize the consequences of war with Japan.

Chiang's elimination in the interest of peace and unification augurs well for China's future. Yet his self-effacement will doubtless be only temporary. His skill as an organizer, his military genius, his patriotism and his forceful efforts to unify China will not permit him to sink into obscurity. He will continue to exert a powerful influence for good in China's present unhappy plight.

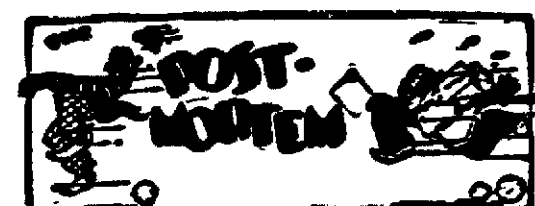

Opinions Of Others

IMPORTED ARTICLES AND FOODSTUFFS are continuing to increase in price, and though there is some excuse for this tendency due to an unfavorable ratio of monetary exchange between this country and importing countries, this situation hardly can account for all the excessive figures placed upon foreign commodities. It is quite clear that the importers are not getting their unreasonable profit; it is the dealers and shop-keepers in our own land who in many instances are making as much as 100 per cent profit over their invoiced prices. Trade cannot flourish under such injustices, and a more equitable basis must be established for these transactions if business is ever to regain its health.—Impartial (Uruguay).

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

THOUGH FOUR CHRISTMAS

Let's go to Christmas with a smile
And turn our backs to care:
One day is such a little while
The joys of life to share.
All through the year with frowns and sighs
We've walked the troubled way,
But Christmas morning let us rise
To laughter and to play.

Let's kiss the mother as of yore
And toss the children high,
Or sprawl with them upon the floor
To watch the train go by.
Let's sing the old-time songs again
And thank the Lord above,
On Christmas morning we can drain
The sparkling cup of love.

Let's have no gloom on Christmas Day
Of business trouble born,
Let's put our worries all away
And hide the frowns we've worn.
With all the family gathered near
Let every one be gay,
And crowd with laughter and with cheer
The coming Christmas day.

Let's prove our faith with eyes aglow,
Our strength with hearts elate,
And let's be merry, just as though
We'd not a care to state.
Let us be brave for friendship's sake
And childhood's right to play,
And out of love and laughter make
An old-time Christmas day.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

STAMMERING AND STUTTERING

Special observation of 5,000 school children showed that stuttering occurred in about 4 per cent of the boys and 2 per cent of the girls. It is characteristic of the shy, sensitive type of child, rather than the child with aggressive traits. But the intelligence quotient as measured by the Stanford-Binet scale shows that the brightest children are as likely to develop this speech difficulty as the dull.

Twice as many children begin to stutter after entering school as do before going to school.

We can't draw any invidious conclusion from that, but I am of the opinion, based on many instances in which my advice has been sought, that naturally left-handed children who are compelled to train the right hand after they enter school are more likely to stutter than they are if permitted to use the left hand for writing and other fine work.

No stammerer or stutterer is troubled when he sings familiar songs whose melody and words he knows well.

None is troubled when he whistles. Some stutters, or stammerers, soliloquize (talk to themselves or when alone) and some read aloud when alone without difficulty.

Any stutterer can easily learn to speak without the usual impediment by breaking his speech into syllables and accompanying each sound he utters with a voluntary movement of any kind, such as tapping a foot, beating with hand, or breathing or even just working one ankle or the toes of one foot in a regular way.

Stutterers or stammerers can almost invariably be cured of their impediment by a course of personally supervised instruction under a competent music master, or by a course of personally supervised exercise under a teacher of physical education—not a mere trainer.

In most large cities the public school authorities provide special classes, in day school or night school, for stutterers, and those who attend these classes and faithfully follow the instruction are more certain of obtaining permanent benefit than are the people who attend institutions that purport to cure stuttering and other speech difficulties.

Even the daily practice of simple vocal and articulation exercises at home is sufficient to correct stuttering in mild cases. Such exercises are best adapted to the individual case, by the physician or the physical education teacher, but I am glad to send an outline of some exercises of this kind to readers who tell me they still are inclined to stutter.

Any one inclined to stutter should sing a great deal when alone or with only sympathetic relatives or friends. Sing only real songs with the right words. Another good practice is to read or recite if you can memorized the best poems, striving to do it well, avoiding any sing-song effect, infusing the voice to suit the spirit of the piece, putting all the expression you can into it.

Not only stutterers but everybody should endeavor to modulate the voice in all conversation.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS.
The Aspirin Habit.

... and were a good deal about my son when I don't hear from him and when I take six or eight aspirins I seem to get relief. (Mrs. G. J.)

Answer—It is a bad habit to resort to sense-deadening drugs to relieve anxiety, worry or other mental distress. Aspirin is an injurious substance. I believe the only justification for taking a teaspoon or in some cases even a 10-grain dose aspirin is severe pain which cannot be relieved in some harmless way.

Oxidation Destroys Vitamin C.
Please explain why the vitamin in tomatoes is destroyed by home canning and not by factory canning. (A. G.)

Answer—Heating or cooking in any vessel which gives access to the air causes oxidation, and that quickly destroys Vitamin C. Factory canning is generally done by the vacuum process. Home canners equipped with a special sealer may use what is practically a vacuum process and tomatoes or other fruit or vegetables so canned will retain their Vitamin C in nearly the amount present in the fresh food. Vitamin C is necessary in the diet, particularly in infancy, to prevent scurvy. That is why we advise feeding fresh or frozen canned tomato juice to the baby daily from the age of 1 month.

The Tinymites

By Hal Cochran

ALL of a sudden Clowny grew real brave and thought that he would have to do some fancy riding on the dogs. "I'll show real speed," he cried. And then to both the dogs he said, "Giddyup! Come on, let's race ahead! Don't worry 'bout my falling off 'cause I know how to ride!"

The sudden leap the dogs both took was funny. It made Clowny look quite startled, "cause he almost fell. 'Hey! Please slow down," he said. "I guess I'm not so good, at that, and I don't wish to fall down flat. Another jerk like you just gave will land me on my head."

One dog then slowed down very quick. The other didn't. What a trick! Of course it made poor Clowny lose his balance. Down he flopped. Then Scouty rushed out from his seat and helped wee Clowny to his feet. In just about a moment both the racing dogs were stopped.

To Clowny, Scouty said, "I guess you'd best avoid another mess. Just sit down for a little while and watch the fine dogs act. You've done a lot to make us smile and you can do more after while." Just then they saw a big airdale and heard his long whirr crack.

The airdale shouted, "Watch me now, I'm going to try and show you how to make an ugly bulldog do a lot of clever tricks. It may, or may not, be real fun. I'll use my trusty whip and gun, but if he won't obey me I will be in quite a fix."

And then to music from the band the bulldog hopped upon a stand. "Sit up!" exclaimed the airdale. "Sit up very straight and growl!"

The bulldog made an awful face. A whip crack, though, put him in place. He did as he was told to and it made the Times howl.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — Music may soothe the savage breast, but it makes a rip-snorter out of the automobile salesman.

At any rate, executives of various motor concerns about town seem to think so. They believe luncheon-musicals for their sales forces have a more energizing effect than the old fashioned pep sessions which were confined to oratory.

The salesmen who attend the luncheons not only listen to the orchestra and soloists, but sing themselves, in group formation.

Of course, the up-and-at-'em talkers still have their say, and the informal "exchange of ideas" has not been abandoned.

So-called "hot" music, martial marches and some of the more stirring semi-classical pieces constitute the musical diet that makes the boys want to rush out and sell open cars to the Eskimos.

The ultimate development of such high pressure methods, it appears, will be serenaders accompanying the eloquent sales fellows into your home, or holding forth on the back seat.

This idea is especially recommended to dealers in second-hand cars. Think how many squeaks and rattles could be covered up by trumpets and timpani.

Club Cutups

About a dozen millionaires maintain elaborate club quarters here on an equal "chip in" basis.

There are no regular dues, but at the end of the year the expenses are added up and each member contributes an equal sum, regardless of how much or how little use he has made of his privs.

Naturally some of the members stage more shindigs at the club than the others but no one seems to object.

Women Don't Always Pay

Theaters where doormen hand return checks to men, but not the women between the acts, are affording amusement to at least a few members of the weaker sex.

The boat of one fair lady, I hear, is that she has seen, in part, as many plays during the past couple of seasons as most of the town's first nighters. And without paying a cent.

At the end of the first act, when patrons of both sexes cram into the outer lobby to smoke, she mingles with the crowd.

When the curtain call sends the male scurrying inside, she joins the procession right past the doorman. She has yet to be stopped.

Usually there's a single seat for her to sink into somewhere. If not, she stands.

At a busy restaurant where checks are paid at the cashier's desk, a woman was spotted who, it turned out, had eaten there a good many times without paying.

After dining alone, she would puff at a cigaret until she saw a lone male patron advance to the desk. She would walk close by, linger at the door to give the impression of waiting for him, and pass out at the same time.

Although the checks were made by the waiters to show how many patrons they accounted for, she was getting by because the cashier was in such a hustle at rush hours.

NEW PLEA FOR MORATORIUM IS SEEN IN EUROPE

No Alternative for U. S. as Foreign Nations Cannot Make Payments

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1931 by Post Pub. Co. Washington—The American government expects to receive a request early in 1932 for an extension of the present moratorium on war debts.

Failure of congress to set up a commission to negotiate a scaling down of payments is now taken abroad as meaning that for the present at least the initiative lies with Europe.

Just as soon as the international committee now meeting at Basel concludes its report, the question of what Germany shall pay beginning next July becomes pertinent and has a bearing from the European viewpoint on what the former allies can pay to America.

Sometime in the early months of 1932, therefore, foreign governments will informally approach the American government with respect to what shall happen when the present moratorium expires next June and inasmuch as the executive branch of the government here has no authority to negotiate a settlement except under existing law, the alternative is the extension of the moratorium.

There are differences of opinion among American officials as to the future trend of American and European policy on war debts if another moratorium of one or two years is sought.

The American government cannot collect its debt by force and European governments have already indicated that during the depression at least they cannot make the regular payments.

Revision Possible

This may mean that when the depression has passed a resumption of payments may be possible or that new negotiations looking toward a revision of the whole debt structure may be brought about when once the presidential and congressional campaigns are out of the way next November.

Since the debate in congress last week, the foreign offices of Europe have been busy trying to make up their minds as to the next step. They had believed when Premier Laval visited the United States that an extension of the moratorium could be avoided and that a new negotiation on the whole subject of war debts and reparations could be begun. Mr. Hoover's request for authority to negotiate through a revived war funding commission was a sequel to the Laval conference here. The president could set up a commission of his own without authority of congress but is disinclined to do so because of the temper of the senate and house as revealed in the debate and the probabilities are that with a campaign coming it would be difficult to get ratification before July 1 on any agreement reached.

Promise to Bankers

Under the circumstances the moratorium for another year is the only practicable alternative from the standpoint of Europe and there are signs that the administration here is resigned to the step. It has frequently been reported that in the famous October conference of New York bankers, the president secured the promise of the bankers to set up the national credit corporation only because he in turn promised to do something about war debts apart from the moratorium proposal.

which at that time had of course been digested, and the bankers were looking beyond July 1, 1932. Whether or not such a promise was made has never been confirmed, but the message sent to congress by the president made an effort to get something accomplished so as to rid the world for the next ten years at least of the war debt problem. Mr. Hoover cannot of course be held responsible by the banking interests for what congress has apparently decided, namely that there are to be no new debt negotiations. And congress on its part has about resolved that American initiative need not be repeated and that the matter is up to Europe from now on.

Condition of Germany There is no denying that any formal commission set up to the new move, but American officials are judging that it has been sold before and on the economic rights of Europe, so a German war debt payment on July 1 last—she will be equally unable to pay on near July 1. While actual payments from foreign governments are not due in December, 1931, the world is waiting to have to wait, then, for a decision of a committee because the European countries have not yet made up their minds as to what to do. Germany's request for a moratorium before next July and once Germany has been granted a postponement the European countries of America will have to make up their minds as to whether or not to grant a moratorium or not. The expectation of course is that it will lead to a request for another moratorium and that the president will be submitting such a request before the next session of congress for the exception of Germany are paying for armament every year many times the sums owed to America on war loans.

In executive quarters fears are expressed that a constant postponement of war debts through the moratorium might lead to such a situation as would make it difficult for the United States to obtain an acknowledgment of payments on the scale of the last war.

White Gift Party Held For Children

THE annual "white gift" party for the American Legion and Auxiliary and their children was held Monday night at the Elks hall with about 500 children and over 100 adults in attendance. A large number of white gifts were brought, and these will be put into baskets for the needy for Christmas. The gifts included toys, food, and clothing. About 40 baskets will be filled and distributed to Appleton families.

The children presented a program as follows: Recitation, Virginia Hedberg; song, Marjorie Defferding and Arlene Ballard; dance, Mary Culligan, Jean Heine, and Lois Carpenter, accompanied by Florence Moosen; recitation, Genevieve Storm; song, Florence Schabo and Betty Richter; piano selection, Fern Bauer; song, George and Jerry Ahrens; recitation, Helen Werner; dance, Joan Foxgrover and Virginia Layendecker; song, Ellen Mae Arnold and Minton Delgen; Mary Jean Fish, recitation; song, Robert Betz; dialogue, Bobby and Beverly Olson; piano selection, Irene Betz; song, Lynn Miller; recitation, Wayne Kuhn; song, Layone; dialogue, recitation, Wayne Kuhn; recitation, Ruth Hardacker; song, Helen Heine, accompanied by Florence Moosen; song, Dick Ahrens; recitation, Virginia Gorrow; recitation, Lois Torno; piano selections, Lucille Heinritz and Betty Brown; recitation, Elsie Hatch; recitations, Helen O'Keefe, Irene Selin and Jackie Glasen; song, Bobbie McGee; recitations, Buddy Heinritz, Helene Sauter, and Dorothy Hedberg; song, Dorothy Klinker and Dorothy Sipler; recitation, Jane and James Klinger; dance, Virginia Layendecker.

The committee in charge of the party included Mrs. Blanche Janes, general chairman; Mrs. Gordon Fish, program; Mrs. William Retza, Mrs. Carl Retza, Mrs. Fred Dauchert, Mrs. Clarence Sterns, Mrs. Henry Gleisner, Mrs. Robert Olson, Mrs. Joseph Boelsen, Mrs. George Culligan, Mrs. R. D. McGee, and Mrs. H. L. Playman.

The annual Christmas banquet of the T. O. P. club was held in the Green room of the Conway hotel at 7 o'clock Monday evening. The dinner was followed by bridge, and gifts were distributed. Prizes were won by the Misses Helen Perry, Margaret Stach, and Gertrude Deitman. The decoration committee included the Misses Gertrude Deitman, Agnes and Elymore Redlin, and Mrs. A. Dimick.

The Misses Bessie and Carl Eaback, 206 E. College-ave., entertained the Frolic Club Monday night at their home. Gifts were exchanged. Prizes at dice were won by Miss Eunice Wagner and Miss Leone Kuehl. The club will meet next Monday at the Kuehl home, 1725 N. Appleton-st.

The "B E" bridge club of Kaukauna held a Christmas dinner in the Blue room of the Conway hotel Monday evening. Members present were the Misses Gertrude Deitman, Josephine Macdonald, Florence Gorman, Grace and Nina Brenzel, Ann Juhl, Betty Schlude, Lucille Dietzler, and Lillian Smith.

Cantata Is Presented At Church

A CHRISTMAS cantata, "The Music of Bethlehem," will be presented by First English Lutheran church choir at the 1935 service next Sunday at Castle hall. The cantata was written by Fred H. Holton, and is being directed by Miss Florence Roate. Mrs. Floyd For is the accompanist.

The soloists are Miss Roate, soprano; Miss Esther Steinert and Miss Geranna Gehl, alto; Clarence Richter, tenor; Charles Housenman, Jr., and Elmer Rehfeld, bass. Twenty-six voices will take part in the cantata.

The carolers of All Saints Episcopal church are singing every evening from the mezzanine balcony of the Irving Zuelke building. On Christmas eve they will sing carols to the sick and shut ins of the parish. Leslie Buchman is in charge of transportation for the carolers.

Plans for a New Year's eve candlelight service at the church were made at the meeting of the Young People's society of St. John Evangelical church Monday night at the church. Rehearsal for the service will take place next Monday evening. The next regular meeting will be Jan. 4.

Games provided entertainment at the Christmas party for Zion Lutheran Young People's society of Zion Lutheran church Monday night at the parish school auditorium. Prizes were won by Miss Frances Theimer and Joan Torno. Thirty-six persons attended. Gifts were exchanged.

Books Make Ideal Gift For Child

BY ANGELO PATRI

I hope every child in the world will awaken to find that Santa Claus had come in the night bearing gifts. I hope too, that one of the gifts will be a good book. There's nothing like a good book for a Christmas gift, if you are wise enough to select the right one. The right one depends upon the child. It must be his book, not yours, nor his good brother's nor his dear aunt's. His. Her's. According to their tastes their books must be. That is not so easy for us but if we consider the child a little we can come close to it.

The little children, those scarcely able to read but eager to start must have picture books and never have been so happy. There is one book, children will love Snippy and Snappy. Don't let anybody frighten you out of buying a fine copy of Mother Goose. Children need that precious old book and if you can get hold of one that has Hader pictures, take it and teach the child to treasure it for it will grow lovelier to him with the years.

The middle group of children have a wide choice. If they already have Colloid's Pinocchio, well and good, but if they haven't they need it, and the better the pictures the better the book. Look for the name of the writer on the book you buy. There are some names that you can rely on every time: Mukerji, E. K. Kelly, Mabel Robinson. Little girls like her books and so do I, are among the very best.

The choice for the older children is wide. There are two good books among a host that I'm buying for the Christmas stockings. The boys are going to get Hail Columbia, in book form, you understand. It is a fine history for American boys as I've seen in many a day. The story is well written, the pictures are good and the type is beautiful. No boy or girl can dislike history after reading a book like this. It is bound to leave a good taste in their mouths, and in their minds as well. My choice for the girls is "Five Girls Who Dared." It is, as its name indicates, a look about five girls who became fine women and if only a grain of its inspiration sets itself in a girl's heart she will be richer than wealth can make her forever and ever after. There is nothing like a true story to capture a child's imagination and these stories are true, beautifully written, and clearly printed. Just the book for a girl in her teens.

The old books never lose their charm. Mother Goose, Pinocchio, Treasure Island, Little Women, David Copperfield, Bible Tales, grow more precious with the years. If you can lead a child to collect books, his own library, you will render him noble service. By that one service you have given him a lasting joy, a lifelong companionship with all that is fine in men and women, an occupation that will fill every leisure moment with happiness.

Books last. With each reading comes fresh enjoyment, new light, and less their interest but books hold on while they have a stitch in their backs, and afterward.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, including stamped addressed envelope for reply.

Yule Party For Knights And Families

A CHRISTMAS party and program for Knights of Pythias, Pythian Sisters, and their families took place Monday night at Castle hall. About 125 persons attended the supper at 6:30 and 150 were present at the evening program. A program of recitations and songs, was presented by the children under the direction of Mrs. Elsie Pratt. Those who took part were Yvonne Zuelke, Roseanne Glesner, John Brunke, Fred Bonzon, Lois Rankin, Myrth Gochman, Mary Greenke and Bobbie Glesner. A quartet composed of Edna Shanon, Clark Nelson, Lester Schmidt and Winton Glaser sang several selections and Clinton Schmidt presided a violin solo.

Christmas carols were sung by the children and community singing took place during the dinner. Santa Claus distributed candy to the children. Mrs. W. C. Jacobs was general chairman of the party.

A short business meeting of Pythian Sisters followed the dinner. Plans were made for installation of officers to take place Jan. 4. The ceremonies will be preceded by a 6:30 dinner.

A Christmas party for adult members of Women's Catholic Order of Foresters will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at Catholic home. Cards will provide entertainment, and there will be a Christmas tree. Gifts will be exchanged. A short business session will precede the party and a lunch will be served afterwards. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. Rose Bellin, chairman, and members whose names begin with C. D. E. or F.

Initiation of candidates will take place at the meeting of Fidelity

Heaps Of Letters To Santa Piled Up In San Francisco

San Francisco (AP)—Postal regulations and the juvenile belief that Santa Claus lives in Alaska or at the North pole have combined to shower the San Francisco postoffice with thousands of sticky, scrawly, unstamped letters disclosing young America's Christmas joys, troubles and desires this year.

So great the flow and so wide was the appeal of the letters that Harry L. Todd, San Francisco postmaster, organized a movement which will assure every hopeful youngster of receiving a present or a greeting from Santa Claus. And out of the movement Mr. Todd plans to create an invisible Santa Claus who will respond in future to every such appeal.

The San Francisco postoffice receives a large portion of the Santa Claus mail in the United States because it is the dispatching point for mail to Alaska and because it is the lead letter office for the western part of the country.

In the rush of Christmas mail distribution, any letter bearing the name "Alaska," "North Pole," or the like quickly finds itself San Francisco bound unless the sorter takes it in his own hands to divert it toward oblivion.

Addressed in everything from almost illegible children's scrawl to typewriting, these letters came from all over the United States, Canada and Hawaii.

They made an unusual grist of mail this year, even for Santa Claus. Some were regularly stamped, others bore Red Cross Christmas seals for postage. Still others had no stamps at all, but they got here just the same.

Some of them brought tears to Santa's eyes. Others made him chuckle. As a while they appealed to him so much that Mr. Todd persuaded city women and wealthy men of San Francisco to form the first organization in the United States to take care of that part of Santa Claus' job and respond in some manner to each letter.

The work of this committee will be the subject of a report next year to the postoffice department and to the national convention of postmasters.

Some letters told of the death of a parent, of jobless fathers and hungry brothers and sisters, of a yearning for shoes and clothing, and some asked "just anything you have to spare." One youngster asked only a pair of size 8 socks and included five pennies for Santa to buy him self a pipe. A little girl in Honolulu said she got nothing for Christmas last year and put in a big order. A youngster in Tennessee told of the poverty of his parents and asked Santa's help.

OFFICER HURT WHEN HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Officer Adna Thomack of the Appleton police department was injured about 7 o'clock last night when he was struck by a car driven by Anthony Natrup, 531 E. Washington-st. Officer Thomack was directing traffic at the intersection of College-ave and Morrison-st when he was hit by Natrup's car, which was going west on College-ave. Natrup told police that his windshield was clouded with mist and he didn't see the officer standing in the street until he struck him. Officer Thomack was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital in the police car, but he was to be released today. His right leg, right side, and back were bruised.

And, while women as motorists have become experts, doctors are still practicing.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"YOU weren't ready to go and we had to hurry. We would have been glad to have taken them along, wouldn't we, Sue?" Corinne appealed.

Corinne had forgotten her anger at Sue. She needed her help. And Sue, forgetful of hers, came to the rescue in the old, quick way.

"More than glad!"

"Co-operation!" Someone said the word and Sue wondered if Harry heard. It hung in the air for a second.

"Come on, Harry," Sue said then. She wanted to get away. "Better get your coat, Corinne."

"I'm not going. I'm married, Sue. I have a husband and a house. My husband is the man by whom you are standing. The days of your whimsy are over."

Sue turned, then, and went from the room. Harry followed her. She didn't speak until they were in the car. Then she gave a long breath of relief.

Harry was watching her. Suddenly she noticed that he was laughing.

"Corinne is a spitfire sometimes. Harry, but she thinks the sun rises and sets in you." Sue said slowly. "She didn't like it that you didn't include her when you decided to go home. Although if you had she wouldn't have come, I suppose. She'll be sorry later."

To herself she added: "And Corinne is very lovely when she's sorry."

"Don't worry about her," Harry answered. "She's not matured yet. She is just 18. I used to be hurried things. But now I call them the growing pains and let them go. She'll be older and wiser—some time." He started to laugh again.

Relieved, Sue realized that he thought the entire outburst was due to jealousy.

The car getting into town now. There was nearly an hour until Jack's train was due.

"What do you want to do until then?" Harry asked. "Would you mind coming to the office? There's a paper I meant to bring home and forgot. I wanted to ask Jack's advice about a problem we have pending. Would you care?"

"Of course not. I'd like it."

Sue followed Harry up the broad stone steps at the entrance to the office building. She waited while he rang for the elevator, and they were shot to the floor on which his office was. She remembered the last time that she had been in there. She had been searching for a job and Harry had offered her one. She hadn't taken it. Corinne had asked her not to. She knew the reason now. Corinne had been afraid that Harry might find a remnant of interest in Sue.

Corinne's heart-shaped face with the glowing eyes, and the head framed in a glossy ringlet of hair, smiled at her from the desk. There was another picture on the table.

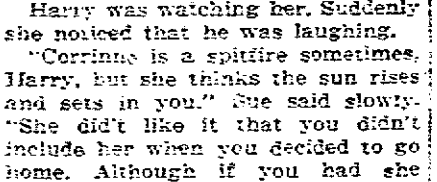

Corinne's personality seemed to dominate the office.

While Harry found his paper, Sue stood looking out of the window into the darkened street below.

Harry came over to her, swung her around, his hands under her arms.

"You're worried about something, aren't you, Sue? It is because you think you're responsible for the break Jack had with his father?"

Sue nodded. That excuse would be as good as any. She glanced into the street again. A car was pulling away from the curb.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

GETTING USED TO BEING POOR CAN BE MADE EASIER WITHOUT FALSE PRIDE

Dear Virginia Vane: I am so wretchedly miserable and unhappy. I think I must write to you and tell you my troubles. When my husband and I married we had everything we needed to make us happy: a nice home, car, lots of friends, etc. But hard times have hit us and we have been forced to give up our home and move to a small apartment way across on the other side of the town where there is quite a different crowd of people. The girls I used to know come to see me once in a while but I feel clean beside them now and hate them to see my surroundings. I can't bear the apartment and it seems as if I couldn't get used to this new life. I don't mind working but I do hate ugliness and here everything is so different. I don't like the people over here, either, and feel myself out of place. Is there anything I can do to make life more bearable? I don't want to make my husband unhappy but I can't keep up all the time.

BESS.

Give yourself some time, Bees. It isn't easy to move from one side of the railroad tracks to the other, but plenty of people are doing it these days and you'd be surprised how well they're making out. People who haven't lived without a dozen servants and a fleet of cars and at least three homes are managing somehow to exist in apartments and are getting used to taking the subway again. People who never knew the meaning of the word economy are learning how to count all over again, and how to make a dollar go as far as ten used to.

You mustn't feel as if a great humiliation has been visited on you. You mustn't feel that you're just poor white trash now that you're no longer in possession of the nice home and the expensive car. Those possessions didn't make you any better person than you are now—and perhaps this experience will do something for your character that will turn you out a finer product than you ever expected to be.

If you're going to sit down and stare fixedly at the white walls of the new apartment, comparing everything with what you used to have you'll be a misanthrope in a few months and your husband will be a nervous wreck. But if you'll start to improve on what you have with using all the brains you have at your disposal, perhaps something can be salvaged out of the wreck.

Why must you be surrounded by ugliness? Other girls live in apartments on the wrong side of the town and manage to make themselves charming homes—chiefly because they're not brooding all the time over the fact that they should own charming homes on the right side of town. You can make any place attractive if you have taste and the gumption to use it.

Why must you feel cheap in front of other girls whose husbands haven't been hit by hard times? If they're your friends, they know that but for a bit of luck here and there, they'd be in your place now—and they'll want to help you in any way possible. You will drive them away with your own attitude, if you persist in being proud and touchy-mot, because they now have what you have not.

Don't be so materialistic. Don't count the world lost because you've lost a house and a car. You could have lost other things more precious and you haven't.

You can go right on being proud, self and being popular if you'll fight down the envy and the resentment and the false pride which keeps you from wanting to go on with the crowd. You've built up a lot of false ideas in your mind and these must be knocked down with common sense.

Believe the other people are doing what you have to do, and you must show that you're as good a sport as the next one. Take hold now. Stop entering at your surroundings and the people who live near you. Make your home a real home, refuse to let it be a place of misery for your husband and yourself.

It's up to you to determine the character of your home—and you can keep all the real friends you have, if you hang on to the right frame of mind. Just realize that and set to work to make the best of this job.

GOOD TASTE IS YOUR GUIDE IN HAND BEAUTY

BY ALICIA HART

You hear a lot about painted toenails to match painted fingernails as the last word in style from the other side, adopted by sophisticates here.

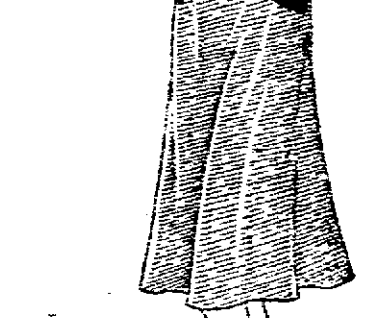

However, if you look about you, see few of them. The dripping blood-red fingernails of last winter and summer, even, seem to have bleached at winter's approach. As for black fingernails, or silver or gold ones, few women with good breeding would care to go in heavily for them.

Your fingernails should reflect the restraint and good taste that is the new note in all styles. Exaggeration is not chic this winter.

In line with this new trend, the medium pink nail enamel is much more popular now than the blazing scarlet. The more nearly you come to naturalness the better.

Also, the pointed, claw-like cut to the knuckle is no longer quite such good taste and the one that curves the nails more nearly the shape of the tips of your fingers. Usually only the fingers are more tapered than the thumb, which is a bit more pointed at the end of the finger. But this is not your innate good taste and upturned eyes helps you out. Paint them just enough to enhance the delicateness of your fingers; round them enough to keep your fingers from looking exaggerated.

There's always the shopping daze before Christmas.

The guard, liver and heart of a turkey, sometimes called "giblets" if washed and cooked in warm water until tender, then chopped fine and added to gravy, add much to its flavor.

Wreaths hung on the outside of windows keep much longer than if hung on the inside. Heat dries them and causes leaves to curl.

When making candies for Christmas it is well to know that the best candies are made in the day time. Fondant should stand from 24 hours to two or three days before being made up into centers for chocolates and bonbons.

See that electric light fuses are in good condition. During the Christmas holidays, when so many lights are in use, a fuse is likely to blow out and leave the house in darkness.

Allow 20 minutes for freezing each pound of turkey. If turkey weighs 12 pounds this means 40 minutes will be required to freeze it.

A heavy rain storm on which a knee will be a bad time Christmas gift for children. It is much time during the day to be in the flower garden.

GOOD TASTE IS YOUR GUIDE IN HAND BEAUTY

BY ALICIA HART

You hear a lot about painted toenails to match painted fingernails as the last word in style from the other side, adopted by sophisticates here.

However, if you look about you, see few of them. The dripping blood-red fingernails of last winter and summer, even, seem to have bleached at winter's approach. As for black fingernails, or silver or gold ones, few women with good breeding would care to go in heavily for them.

Your fingernails should reflect the restraint and good taste that is the new note in all styles. Exaggeration is not chic this winter.

In line with this new trend, the medium pink nail enamel is much more popular now than the blazing scarlet. The more nearly you come to naturalness the better.

Also, the pointed, claw-like cut to the knuckle is no longer quite such good taste and the one that curves the nails more nearly the shape of the tips of your fingers. Usually only the fingers are more tapered than the thumb, which is a bit more pointed at the end of the finger. But this is not your innate good taste and upturned eyes helps you out. Paint them just enough to enhance the delicateness of your fingers; round them enough to keep your fingers from looking exaggerated.

There's always the shopping daze before Christmas.

There's always the shopping daze before Christmas.

MY NEIGHBOR Says —

The guard, liver and heart of a turkey, sometimes called "giblets" if washed and cooked in warm water until tender, then chopped fine and added to gravy, add much to its flavor.

Wreaths hung on the outside of windows keep much longer than if hung on the inside. Heat dries them and causes leaves to curl.

When making candies for Christmas it is well to know that the best candies are made in the day time. Fondant should stand from 24 hours to two or three days before being made up into centers for chocolates and bonbons.

See that electric light fuses are in good condition. During the Christmas holidays, when so many lights are in use, a fuse is likely to blow out and leave the house in darkness.

Allow 20 minutes for freezing each pound of turkey. If turkey weighs 12 pounds this means 40 minutes will be required to freeze it.

A heavy rain storm on which a knee will be a bad time Christmas gift for children. It is much time during the day to be in the flower garden.

CONTINUE INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL GAMES

Neenah—The intramural basketball games were continued Monday evening at the high school. The Menasha team, captained by Clarence Toeppler, defeated Algoma 20 to 10. The second game was between the Neenah team, captained by Raymond Napuck, defeated Kaukauna, captained by "Jiggs" Jorgensen, 9 and 8.

In the former game the Algoma team failed to score in the first half, made three points in the third quarter, and two points in the last quarter when Captain Toeppler of the opposing team put the ball through the wrong hoop. Menasha started immediately after the first tossup when "Jahmmer" hit the hoop for two points. In the second quarter the score went to 10, then 14 in the third.

In the latter game both teams finished the first quarter at 2 all, after which the battle was on with but one point difference throughout the entire game. While the winners tallied 5 at the half, 8 at the third quarter and 9 at the finish, the Kaukauna team was tallying 4 at the half, 7 at the end of the third quarter and 8 at the finish. Games will be played Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA THURSDAY EVENING

Neenah—"Along the Christmas Way," a Christmas cantata with dialogue, will be given at 7:30 Thursday evening by Immanuel Lutheran Sunday school children, assisted by both senior and junior choirs, consisting of about 20 children. The story depicts Mary Youth and a group of children traveling along the Christmas way where they meet Christmas Eve, Little Smiles, Wreaths, Laughter, Little Smiles, Songs, Candles, Bells, Selflessness, Unity, and a group of Pilgrims seeking Peace and Joy. Thinking of Christmas will reveal real treasures to be found along the Christmas way is the theme.

DECISION SAVES KIMBERLY CLARK CO. $652,389 IN TAXES

Washington—The Kimberly Clark company of Neenah will not have to pay Uncle Sam $652,389.49 of income and profits taxes assessed against it under a decision announced today by the bureau of internal revenue.

The abatement represents tax deficiencies for the years 1917 through 1920. The bureau ruled that the liabilities for those years have been paid by the transferee of the property of the company and the abated sum thereof represents an overassessment.

AUGMENT SERVICE AT POSTOFFICE

Windows to Remain Open Until 8 O'clock Next Two Evenings

Menasha—In addition to the increased accommodations now in effect at the Menasha postoffice, additional service will be provided at three of the four service windows today and Wednesday, according to C. A. Loesch, postmaster. The parcel post, stamp, and general delivery windows will be open until 8 o'clock in the evening on both days, but the money order and registry window will be closed at 5 o'clock. Both the parcel post and stamp windows will be closed at 6 o'clock on Thursday and there will be no mail delivery on Christmas Day, Loesch stated.

The Christmas rush is well under way at the Menasha postoffice and additional clerks and carriers have been added to the regular force.

SONNENBERG DRUGS TO PLAY APPLETON BEARS

Menasha—The Sonnenberg Drugs, crack Menasha amateur team, will meet the Appleton Bears at the Appleton armory Tuesday evening. The tilt will be played as a curtain raiser for the Company D-Clintonville clash.

The Bears and Sonnenbergs are both members of the Badger Amateur league organized at Oshkosh Sunday but Tuesday's game will have no effect on league standings. The Menasha squad, league leaders in Falcon circuit competition here, includes Green, Keefe, Hobeisel, Kolgen, Asmus and others.

COLLECT FOODSTUFFS FOR POOR IN MENASHA

Menasha—A collection of foodstuffs and other contributions from Menasha merchants was made by the Menasha Good Fellows Monday Trucks brought the donations to the Menasha library where the food will be sorted and distributed to the needy Thursday morning. Funds received by the Good Fellows will be used to complete the Christmas baskets and Red Cross and Boy Scout workers will assist in the sorting and distribution.

CALDERMEN READY FOR GAME AT KIEL

Menasha High School Cagers to Play Second Non-conference Battle

Menasha—The Menasha high school basketball squad will meet the Kiel high school quintet in a non-conference battle, at the Kiel gymnasium Tuesday evening. Rehearsal of offensive plays, under the direction of Coach Nathan Calder, was completed Monday evening.

Jack Leopold, who performed creditably in a clash with Chilton here last Wednesday, is expected to start in the pivot position for Menasha. Asmus and Massey, two veterans of last year's first string squad, will start as guards, and Robinson and Sensesbrenner are expected to see action at forwards. Tuesday's game is the second non-conference contest of the season for the Caldermen.

Following the Kiel game the Blues will continue regular daily rehearsals at Butte des Morts gymnasium during the remainder of the week, but will suspend activities during the week following.

RED CROSS SPONSORS CHRISTMAS BENEFIT

Menasha—The annual Red Cross Christmas benefit show was under way in the Brin theatre Tuesday afternoon. An elaborate entertainment program was arranged by officials of the local chapter and foodstuffs, brought by both children and adults as admission to the theatre, will be distributed in Christmas baskets to needy families throughout the city.

HOTEL MANAGER TO ADDRESS ROTARIANS

Menasha—A vocational talk by William Masters, manager of Hotel Menasha, will feature a meeting of Menasha Rotarians in Hotel Menasha Wednesday noon. The vocational talk is one of a series given by members of the Rotary club during the past few weeks.

will continue regular daily rehearsals at Butte des Morts gymnasium during the remainder of the week, but will suspend activities during the week following.

CHRISTMAS STORY HOUR ON THURSDAY MORNING

Kaukauna—There will be a special Christmas story hour at the Kaukauna Free Public Library at 10 o'clock Thursday morning for children of the first six grades. The story hour, to be conducted by Miss Bernice Happer, librarian, will take the place of the regular hour Saturday morning.

A box of Texas mistletoe was presented by Dr. H. B. Tanner, a former Kaukauna resident now living in Texas. The mistletoe and a brief description of the plant is being exhibited at the charging desk of the local library.

DEVLIN FUNERAL MONDAY MORNING

Last Rites Are Conducted at Holy Cross Church at Kaukauna

Kaukauna—Funeral services for Patrick Devlin, 52, who died at 7:40 Thursday evening following a two month's illness, were held at 9 o'clock Monday morning at Holy Cross church with Rev. P. J. Lochman in charge. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Devlin was born in Ireland, and came to the United States at the age of five. He was educated in Kaukauna schools and spent his life here since his arrival in Kaukauna, being employed as foreman of the yard crew at the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. plant here for about 20 years.

He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, Foresters, Elks, Holy Name society, and Eagles lodges of this city. There is but one survivor, the widow.

Bearers were George Hatchell, Marshal Bayorgeon, Joseph Wittmann, John Nielsen, Theodore Elworth, and Dan Burns.

Among the out of town people were Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Cronce of Green Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Finnegan of Greenleaf, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Haid of Ashland, and Mrs. C. Kafer of Chilton.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS Kaukauna—Mr. and Mrs. Ben Prugh are spending several weeks in Brownbrook, N. J. R. Smith and B. Gibson left for New York Tuesday morning after

MERCHANTS NOW KEPT BUSY WITH HOLIDAY RUSH

Kaukauna Stores Remain Open Tuesday and Wednesday Evenings

Kaukauna—Merchants and business men here are in the midst of the annual Christmas rush. All business places will remain open until 9 o'clock Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. All the stores, however, will close at 6 o'clock on Christmas eve. Barber shops will be open until 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, but will close at 6 o'clock Thursday evening. The shops will be open on Saturday, as will most meat markets.

Business did not show much increase until Monday, when the final rush started. Wednesday and Thursday are expected to bring the greatest volume of business. Some of the stores have added extra help for the remaining days. Christmas trees are being sold at most of the stores, and range from 25 cents to $1.50.

All postal employees will spend Christmas day at home. Several of the paper mills will close down over the weekend to allow employees to spend the holiday at home. There will be no mail deliveries, with the exception of letters bearing special delivery stamps.

The volume of Christmas business compares favorably with that of last year, according to most of the Kaukauna merchants. Several places report that Christmas business is on a par with last year's. Several have noticed a small decline, while others report increases.

ROTARY CLUB MEETS AT NOON TOMORROW

Kaukauna—There will be a meeting of the Kaukauna Rotary club in Hotel Kaukauna Wednesday noon. The meeting will be preceded by the usual 12:30 luncheon, but no program will be offered because of the holidays, according to C. D. Towles, Marshal Bayorgeon and H. S. Cooke also are members of the committee. Arrangements for a program for the following week are being made.

HIGH SCHOOL CAGERS MEET ALUMNI TONIGHT

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school basketball team will open its season here at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium, meeting a crack aggregation of alumni stars coached by Stanley Beguhn. Coach Little has six lettermen on his squad, and is hoping for a victory to start the season. The team opens its conference season at the local gym against Clintonville on Jan. 8.

FEWER TRANSIENTS NOW

Kaukauna—Because of milder weather the number of transients lodged at the police station overnight has been decreasing. Monday evening there were 13 lodgers housed at the local station. This number is less than during the same period last year, police report.

PEDESTRIAN BRUISED WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

Kaukauna—Miss Marie Bernt received an injury to her head and bruises about the body when struck by an automobile driven by A. Euteneuer, 1335 Rogers-ave, Appleton, at the intersection of Draper and Depot-sts about 6 o'clock Monday evening, police reported. Euteneuer stopped immediately and took Miss Bernt to a doctor where it was found that her injuries were not serious.

RADIO PRESENTED TO SCHOOL AT KAUKAUNA

Kaukauna—The pupils and faculty of Park school received a radio at their Christmas program this week. The radio was presented to the school by the Woman's Benedit association.

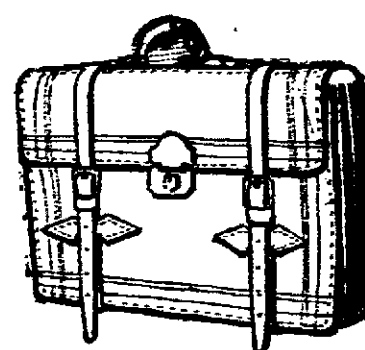

SOCIAL ITEMS

Kaukauna—American legion Auxiliary met in legion clubrooms on Oak-st Monday evening. There was a Christmas tree and cards were played. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. E. Roberts in schafkopf, Mrs. Albert Weiss in five hundred, Mrs. Archie Creviere in bridge, and Mrs. Barney Lamers in rummy.

A meeting of the Lady Knights of Columbus, scheduled for Dec. 31, has been postponed until Thursday, Jan. 7.

FIND ABANDONED CAR

Kaukauna—Police here found an automobile belonging to Wendell Shaw, 425 East Walnut-st, Green Bay, abandoned in La Pollette park. The car, which was not damaged had been stolen from a parking place on Seventh-st early Sunday evening.

DROP IN WHEAT PRICES IN 1931 MAKES HISTORY

Slump Topples Records Running Back 300 Years to Elizabethan Times

BY GEORGE SCHNACKEL
Copyright, 1931, By The Post-Crescent

Chicago—Wheat made world history during 1931 by a price collapse that toppled records running back 300 years to Elizabethan times.

There is optimism now over the outlook for 1932, but this year's crash carried with it whatever prosperity remained in the grain belt of the United States. It loosened a political revolt, broke a brave attempt at stabilization by a farm board agency, revived farmer demands for legislative panaceas, and demonstrated again that the farmer can be wrong.

When demoralization was at its worst in June and in October, producers were paid as low as twenty-five cents a bushel for their cash wheat, less than twenty cents for corn, only slightly above ten cents for oats and in some instances could not get bids on rice. On October 15 the average farm price for wheat for the entire country was only 35.1 cents a bushel compared with 65.6 cents a year ago.

The eighty-three year history of the Chicago Board of Trade, center of the world grain trade, previously had failed to record happenings in the price structure of commodities as sweeping as those that occurred in 1931.

Farmers, officials of government agencies and grain traders, viewing the situation, found many things to blame, including Russia, for dumping 95,000,000 bushels of wheat on already glutted world markets.

United States winter wheat farmers, for failing to accept seriously department of agriculture advice to curtail acreage in the fall of 1930, resulting in a bumper 775,000,000 bushel crop.

The grain stabilization corporation farm board agency for attempting artificially to support the market, purchasing a total of 329,000,000 bushels of wheat in a vain attempt to halt the decline.

Short sellers, for taking advantage of adverse world conditions to press their advantage, for profit.

Foreign nations, for raising tariff barriers against exporting nations, causing further congestion in the channels of trade.

Reasons For Optimism

At the end of the year, looking ahead at an approaching crop season, these same observers, thought that they saw ground for a mild optimism. They thought that the greatest weight of liquidation already had been felt, and pondered the following developments:

A virtual withdrawal of Russia from the world export markets, owing to poor quality wheat and domestic requirements.

A sixteen per cent reduction in winter wheat acreage in our south-west, with the crop condition only 50 per cent of normal, and with average conditions a harvest likely to be 299,000,000 bushels under last year's crop.

A return of "free" conditions to the grain futures market, with the government agencies definitely withdrawn from stabilizing operations.

Increased consumption of wheat the world over, owing to cheap prices.

A southern hemisphere crop 100,000,000 bushels below that of 1930.

The most spectacular development of the year in grains, grew from the federal farm board attempt, through its agencies, the Farmers' National Grain corporation and the Grain Stabilization corporation, to stem the tide of liquidation.

The Grain Stabilization corporation had entered the futures market of wheat, late in 1929, pulled out, and then re-entered late in 1930 and continued a factor until June 1931, when the operation definitely was terminated.

Outlook For 1932

At the moment traders are optimistic over the 1932 outlook. There has been a spring wheat shortage the world over, not reflected in prices, but cutting into supplies, nonetheless.

The Canadian spring wheat crop was 272,000,000 bushels compared with 275,000,000 harvested last year.

Our own spring wheat crop was a failure at 192,999,000 bushels compared with 251,000,000 a year ago.

The Russian crop was reduced by wet weather at harvest time with quality so poor that the wheat of this country no longer is regarded as a competitor.

Winter wheat production, on the other hand, was of bumper volume in this country at 775,000,000 bushels and while farmers are reported to have cut acreage about 16 per cent this fall, the prospect is for a large crop again next year, unless weather conditions are adverse.

Corn was not hit so badly as wheat in a price way during 1931, but corn bears a different relationship to the farmers pocketbook.

Most of this grain is marketed through livestock, and livestock prices have not been satisfactory.

The marketing of corn for feeding purposes, also has been restricted by the heavier feeding of cheaper wheat, so that in spite of a short 1930 crop the carry-over into the new crop year on November 1 was 93,000,000 bushels compared with 73,000,000 last year.

This year's crop was estimated at 2,674,000,000 compared with 2,094,000,000 harvested last year. Owing to the small yield in 1930, corn was relatively high priced during most of the year and resulted in heavy feeding of other grains in its place.

The highest price for the December delivery was made on April 1, when it reached 66 1/2 cents while the May delivery sold up to 52 1/2 cents on November 7. The lowest prices were made October 5 when the December delivery sold at 32 1/2 cents and May at 25 1/2 cents.

The quality of the present year's crop is described as unusually high with 65.5 per cent merchantable, compared with a ten year average of 79.6. About 5.5 per cent of the new crop was fed before November 1, compared with 7.5 per cent last year and 5.5 per cent the average. The crop matured unusually early but this was offset by heavy feeding of wheat in place of new corn.

During part of the year there was greater speculative activity in corn than in wheat, owing to farm board participation in the wheat market.

There was little of interest in oats trade during the year. Prices ranged from 20 1/2 to 24 1/2 cents for the December delivery and from 23 1/2 to 30 1/2 cents for May. The crop was estimated at 1,194,000,000 bushels against 1,146,000,000 a year ago. Hot weather at harvest time reduced the yield and quality.

Ketchikan, Alaska—There will be Christmas music in the little Indian village of Metlakatla, thanks to the fish. Profits from the fish cannery enabled the citizens to equip the 60-piece town band with new instruments and finish paying for the new town hall, which by the way is the largest in Alaska.

BADGER FACULTY MEN TO TALK AT CONVENTIONS

Madison —(AP)—The University of Wisconsin will send faculty members to speak at numerous conventions for educators during the holidays, two of which will be held here.

From Dec. 23-26, the Modern Languages association will meet at the Memorial Union. The national meeting of Sigma Tau Delta, professional English fraternity, also meets here.

Badger faculty members also will attend conventions of the American Political Science association at Washington; the American Mathematical society at New Orleans; the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism at Minneapolis; the National Association of Teachers of Speech at Detroit, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science at New Orleans.

FLASHES OF LIFE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Detroit — Countess Vera Grace de Chappellaine has her title and her American citizenship too. She told Federal Judge Simons she was born in Cadillac, Mich., and wanted her citizenship restored but did not want to surrender her title. Under the law persons seeking citizenship must renounce titles. But Judge Simons ruled she could keep the title as it was not recognized by any government and was only a social distinction.

Chapter 13
DIGGING UP A PAST

HAR, TOM! Preston called, turning toward a lanky youth in the background. "Take these horses. Throw saddle an' pack on the porch of the empty cabin. . . Wal, stranger, you're down, so come in."

Rock had not noticed that the next cabin, some distance away under the pines, was a double one of the picturesque kind, long, with wide eaves, a porch all around, and ample space between the two long structures. Water ran down from the stream, in a chute hollowed from saplings. This house was one of the older ones, which had become weathered, with roof greened over with moss. The nearer cabin had two doors and a window that Rock could see. Evidently, the second cabin was a kitchen. Deer and elk antlers, saddles and skins, hung on the walls between the cabins. Table and benches there indicated where the Prestons dined.

"Reckon it'll be pleasanter sittin' outside," said Preston, and invited Rock to a rustic seat under the trees.

Many and many a time Rock had camped in the Pass, realizing and loving the beauty of that lovely aloof spot, yet never had he imagined it as a site for a ranch. But it was indeed the most perfect situation of any he had ever seen. And it was Thirly Preston's home.

"What'd you say? Your name was?" Preston asked.

"I didn't say—yet," laughed Rock. He liked Preston and did not help but come the son most disparagingly with the father.

"Thirly didn't tell me either," went on the rancher. "But I know you're the young fellow who was polite to her an' did somethin' or other for her that made Ash huffy."

"Yes, I am. It wasn't much, certainly nothin' to offend Miss Thirly's brother."

"Aw, Ash was drunk. An' he shore ain't no credit to us then. Thirly, the other boy who saw you, said you was pretty decent. That you only stuck out your foot for Ash to tumble over. I reckon he didn't need that to take a dislike to you."

"He didn't recognize me, I'm glad to say."

"Young man, I'll say you didn't lose any time trailin' Thirly up," went on Preston, quizzically, with a twinkle in his big gray eyes. "Shore you must be one of them sudden fellers."

"Mr. Preston, you—I—I—," began Rock, somewhat disconcerted, more from the rancher's genial acceptance of a fact than from being discovered.

"You needn't lie about it. Lord knows this hyar has happened a hundred times."

"I wasn't goin' to lie, Mr. Preston," went on Rock.

"Don't call me mister. Make it plain. Preston, an' Gage when you feel acquainted enough. You're not tryin' to tell me you didn't collar Thirly out hyar?"

"No—not exactly. Now you make me think—I'm afraid it must be somethin' like that. But I came to ask you for a job."

"Good. What'll you work for?"

"Reckon the same as you pay any other rider. I'm an old hand with ropes, horses, cattle—anythin' about the range."

"Wal, you're hired. I'm shore in need of a man who can handle the boys."

"Say, Preston, you don't mean you'll put me to handlin' Ash? He said he was foreman."

"I run two outfits. Ash bosses the older riders. If you fit in with the youngsters it'll shore be a load off my mind."

"That suits me fine. I reckon I can hold up the job."

"Wal, you strike me all right. But I gotta tell you that no young man I ever hired struck Ash right. An' none of them ever lasted."

"Why not?" inquired Rock.

"Say, you seen Ash an' you ask me that?" exclaimed Preston spreading his big hands.

"Preston, if I turn out to be of value to you, will you want me to last?" queried Rock, and this was the straight language of one Westerner to another.

"Have you any money?" parried Preston.

"Well, I'm not quite broke."

"Jest a poor cowpuncher with your fortune tied up in hoss an' saddle?"

11,120-POINT LEAD PILED UP BY CULBERTSON

Challenger and von Zedtwitz
Add 3,025 Points to Previous Lead

BY TOM O'NEIL

New York—(AP)—Heavy sets and a climatic little slam, involving brilliant elimination and end play, were largely responsible for Ely Culbertson's side being 11,120 points ahead today in his 150-rubber contract bridge match with Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby.

Culbertson and his partner of a night, Waldemar von Zedtwitz, added 3,025 points to Culbertson's plus, winning four of the six rubbers of the fifth session and making the rubbers stand 83 for Culbertson's side to 31 for the opposition.

The lead exceeds by 4,950 points, the largest plus Lenz and Jacoby ever had in their test of the Lenz system against Culbertson's. That plus was 7,600 and it came after the first hand of rubber 28.

Six rubbers short of the half way mark of the match, Culbertson, with three different partners, has accumulated a total of 62,550 points as compared with 51,560 for Lenz and Jacoby.

Never was Culbertson so enthusiastic about the merits of his system. With the exception of two failures to essay little slam, one of them being questionable because of a part score, he and the Baron, as von Zedtwitz is known to the bridge world despite his renunciation of the title when he was naturalized, usually bid all possible.

Lenz had little comment to make on the session except to point out that he had suffered heavily by a mistake of his own, though saving points through mistakes of his opponents. (Referring to two failures to contract for slams).

By his own mistake, he meant, his first psychic bid of the match which caused him to be set five doubled and vulnerable and lose 1,800 points. Such a loss is quite exceptional among high ranking players in tournaments. It came in rubber 65, the second of the session, in which four sets cost Lenz and Jacoby a total of 2,400 points.

Culbertson and the Baron won the rubber and passed the 10,000 mark right there. The gain, 2,550 points, was the largest for one rubber recalled by experts for an outstanding match when it is considered that there was only a 500 bonus for rubber and no slam premiums were involved.

"Oh, ol, Waddy," broadcast Culbertson once when the Baron failed to raise him to slam, but there came great praise when on the last hand of the session von Zedtwitz added 1,450 points to the score of Culbertson's side in one lump.

A successful little slam when vulnerable and a 700 rubber all at once were due to the Baron's skill. It was the first elimination play of the match and a master's touch.

The play was handled so that on the last three tricks Jacoby held only the king and eight of spades and the three of hearts, Lenz the knave and ten of spades and the five of clubs, the Baron the queen and four of spades and the four of hearts.

The Baron led the four of hearts. Jacoby had to take it. He could do nothing but lead away from his spade king so that von Zedtwitz took a trick with the queen and dummy with the ace. A finesse would have failed because of Lenz's holding of the knave and ten.

This was Culbertson's communique: "A hard slam to play. Waddy cracks his car in evidence agitation. Announces as he touches the dummy's card, 'arranging.' 'You ruse, caressing,' interjects E. C. Laughter and then the Baron makes a brilliant end and gets his slam."

The "ol, ol, Waddy," hand caused Jacoby to comment, "slight confusion in the enemy camp." Culbertson bid the same suit as bid by the opposition to signal control of the first lead of the suit, at least, but was left in a three club contract when the Baron failed to do on. The hand was a laydown for six clubs. Hand 494:

EVERGREEN SERVES
HIGHEST PURPOSE
AT CHRISTMAS TIME

Milwaukee—(AP)—Enjoy your Christmas tree. Stop worrying because someone cut it out of the forest and prevented it from growing up to be a lunch plank or a flag pole. The professional forester has forgiven you.

When adorned with tinsel and lights, the little evergreen is serving its highest purpose, in the opinion of E. W. Tinker, district forester in the Great Lakes region. The forester is willing to sacrifice some fine spruce and balsam for Christmas trees, if the world gains immensurably in happiness, he says.

But the sacrifice, from the point of view of the matter-of-fact forester is not so great as might be supposed, Mr. Tinker said. In fact, if Christmas trees are cut from a forest judiciously, the forest may actually be improved, he said.

"Nature, as a planter, scatters seeds with a lavish hand," Mr. Tinker said. "Probably only two trees in fifty which get a start to live survive to become full-grown trees. In the forest they are too close together. Trees which lag behind in growth die, fall to the ground, and become fire, insect, and fungi hazards. So by having a Christmas tree you may be doing the forest a good turn."

Tops of black spruce are to be recommended highly as Christmas trees, Mr. Tinker said. The remainder of the tree becomes wood pulp and from it countless articles are manufactured. It is even possible that the trunk of the tree will meet the top—that a book or a pair of rayon socks made of pulp wood will become a present to be placed under the Christmas tree.

Michael Coughlan, who recently died, aged 110, in the Tuolumne district, Ireland, could remember the days of O'Connell and when men worked for eight cents a day.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET IN FONDY NEXT MONTH

Milwaukee—(AP)—The state central committee of the Democratic party will hold a conference in Fond du Lac in January to make recommendations for district delegates-at-large to the party's national convention. The committee, which met here Saturday, approved the Ford du Lac conference, but pending legislative action on reapportionment no definite date was fixed.

The candidacy of Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York apparently enjoys the favor of many Wisconsin Democrats. Endorsement of Roosevelt by Joseph P. Martin, Green Bay attorney, was vigorously applauded, and Charles E. Broughton, Sheboygan editor, also went on record in favor of the New Yorker.

William George Bruce, of Milwaukee, was elected treasurer of the central committee to succeed Herbert Wolf, who resigned.

Lenz And Time Wait For No Nobility At Contract

BY MORRIS WATSON

New York—(AP)—Ely Culbertson was dummy. He came out from the playing room.

"Dear old Sidney," he said, shaking his head in laughter. "He just kills me." Culbertson got the score and Lenz did the hating for the gallery.

To start with, Culbertson brought the Baron Waldemar von Zedtwitz into the game as his partner. The Baron—tall, thin, brown necktie, few words—was ready to play on time, but, inasmuch as he was of nobility, there were those who felt certain social amenities should be carried out.

Those who did took him in tow and steered him about for introductions while the veteran Lenz waited at the bridge table and shouted "come, come on, come on, let's get going!"

The Baron was almost back at the bridge table when the word went down the hall that he had not yet met the count. The count was Gos to Morner of Sweden, former husband of Peggy Joyce, and more lately wedded to one of the girl reporters covering the match.

Lenz bounced a deck of cards on the bridge table, leaped into the air, shouted:

"I'll be back in 15 minutes!"

"Baron!" shouted Culbertson.

"Baron!" shouted Mr. Culbertson's butler.

"Baron!" "Baron!" "Baron!" shouted at least a half a dozen people in the hallway.

The Baron came running.

"Call me 'mister,'" he said, breathlessly.

"Come, Sidney," said Culbertson.

"The Baron is here—and, by the way, Sidney, I know now why you are a bachelor, you could never wait for a wife."

"Hmf!" grunted Lenz as he sat down.

"Cher up," encouraged his partner, Oswald Jacoby.

Lenz sank his chin into his vest. Baron von Zedtwitz smiled his timid smile. Culbertson wrapped his feet about the chair legs.

Sometimes in the session Lenz made a contract.

"Heh! Heh!" he said.

"Dear old Sidney," Culbertson told reporters, "he's taking it on the chin like a man!"

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
"CAPRICORN"

If December 23rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:50 a. m. from 1 p. m. to 2:20 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m. The chief astrological indications of December 23rd bear on finance, which is under favorable conditions money will unexpectedly be made or acquired. Propitious time for most occasions except those of a social nature, and hostesses will find their affairs dragging, and movement forced.

The child born on this December 23rd will be interested in serious things, and will prefer the company of those whose objects in life will be argument, and will often turn just for the sake of having his say, and not to air any real convictions. It will be highly observant and critical.

Character analysis of person born on a December 23rd: Almost from the time you first opened your eyes to your mundane existence, you have taken a keen interest in things about you, and your journey through life will at least be mentally fruitful. You have the power of making yourself what you will, and moulding your destiny, more than most people. You need never be patronized by Fate, if you take advantage of the opportunities as they are presented to you. Flee the tribe which tries to take command of the ship of your soul, which is forever saying "you ought to do this, or should not do that." Whatever you do, do not allow other people to take hold of the wheel of your cart.

You are practical and magnanimous, and if a man, this will probably be shown in your mechanical or engineering engineering ingenuity. If a woman, you should have excellent taste about your dress, and should be able both to design and create. You are active and energetic, nervous and temperamental, and cannot stick to one thing long at a time. You have your own way of doing things.

BROTHER OF MUSSOLINI DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Milan, Italy—(AP)—Arnaldo Mussolini, brother of the premier, died Monday afternoon in his automobile of a heart attack.

He left the office of the newspaper Popolo d'Italia, of which he was editor, shortly before 1 o'clock to have luncheon at home.

He became ill in his car and was taken immediately to a hospital.

He was 45 years old, two years younger than the premier.

Arnaldo Mussolini, who died unexpectedly, was the eldest of the direct heirs of the late Benito Mussolini. He had two brothers.

Both were newspapermen, and Arnaldo was editor of Popolo d'Italia.

STOCK MARKET INFLUENCED BY YULE SPIRIT

Slow Upward Trend Continues Throughout List—Trading Is Quiet

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York, Dec. 22.—Security markets again appeared to be under the influence of the holiday spirit today.
Both the stock and bond divisions were quiet, with a slow upward trend. There was a little further selling in the oils, but it was soon absorbed. A moratorium on Hungarian external payments had been generally expected to have a notable repercussion. Furthermore, America's stocks there is relatively small.
Among stocks creeping up 1 to 2 points were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, American Can, Sears, Woolworth, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco Co., Dupont, National Biscuit, Consolidated Gas, North American, American Smelting, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, New York Central and others. Oil stocks, after selling during the morning, with Standard of N. J. selling fractionally higher.
The copper shares responded to reduce production to 254 per cent of estimated capacity, starting Jan. 1. It is expected that this will reduce world production from about 125,000 tons to 85,000 tons, and bring a gradual reduction in the dumping of copper stocks now above ground, which are sufficient to last about a year. It was felt in the trade, however, that it would be a few months before the program would finally be fully reflected in prices. The copper market remained dull, with the domestic price unchanged at 74 cents a pound.
The Hungarian moratorium was regarded as significant, only as it might remove the delicate situation in central Europe. International banking circles were interested in the advance news on the advisory committee's recommendation to reduce the moratorium on German payments under a suggestion of deterring Germany from making further advances. Bankers were encouraged to co-operate, and the moratorium was expected to be repeated and extended to France.

The railroad market was active in railroads—Trading Is

Some irregular trading in the bond market, although the better Missouri issues were inclined to a steady tone. The market was quiet yesterday's session, there was some profit taking especially in those railroads that have recently recorded substantial advances. As a whole, however, the carriers exhibited considerable resistance to a lower price movement.
Knowledge that banking houses and investment corporations are picking up under the "pull" did much to keep prices on a more or less even keel. Selling to establish income tax losses is also believed by some observers to have about spent itself.
Among the railroads that registered early gains were those of Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Chicago and North Western, Pennsylvania, Southern Railway and Union Pacific. Some of the carriers that sold down during the day included Boston and Maine, Canadian Pacific, New York Central and Atchafalaya. Most of the losses, however, were fractional.
A few of the utilities were bought at fractional advances. Among these were some loans of American Telephone, International Telephone and Western Union, Consolidated Gas, Pacific Gas and North American company. Copper and rubber securities improved but the oils sagged.
United States government obligations were soft and foreign bonds mixed. Japanese issues were off nearly two points, but British and Argentine issues added to their previous gains. The German bonds were easy.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

London—Holiday influences and the overnight setback in Wall Street were responsible for general dullness and a drooping tendency, especially in transatlantic gilt edge securities and oil shares. The markets were restrained pending the unravelling of continental finances and a move to lower the bank rate which is hoped for in the near future. The closing was undecided.
Paris—The bourse, lacking optimistic reports from foreign markets, continued dull with few transactions recorded, and finished with a heavy loss.
Berlin—Dollars closed.

LIVESTOCK MARKET DEVELOPS STRENGTH

Shippers Pay Higher Prices in Search for High-Grade Butchers

Chicago—(AP)—Strength developed in the hog market at the outset of trading but it was limited in extent. Shippers seeking high-grade butchers of specific weights, paid $4.50-4.60, prices that were firm as compared with the best time of the year, but the big packers held back. They had 7,000 hogs on through billing and only 4,000 state hogs were carried over unsold from the previous session. Local supplies of 30,000 were 11,000 short of a week ago, while total of 215,000 for the week to date reported in the market circle shows a shrinkage of more than 100,000 as contrasted with the first two weeks of the year.
Bovine marketings were held down to the smallest initial two-day total of the year, barely 10,000 arriving, against 31,500 for the first two days last week and 22,700 for the corresponding period last year. Plain quality of the offerings distressed shippers seeking good butchers and it was expected that the market would be under the influence of the limited supplies, the trade lacked snap and only desirable steers showed quotable improvement.
Packers received no direct consignments of lambs, but the open market supply of 20,000 overran the advance estimate by 6,000 head and proved ample for trade needs.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK
Chicago—(AP)—(CUSD)—Hogs 30,000 including 7,000 direct; opening strong; later trade slow, 5-10 lower; early bulk 170-200 lbs 4.25-4.40; practical bulk 4.40; short load 4.45; later bids 4.50-4.60; packing sows 3.50-3.75; light hogs 4.00-4.25; heavy hogs 4.25-4.40; medium weight 200-250 lbs 4.25-4.40; heavy weight 250-350 lbs 4.25-4.40; packing sows medium and good 2.75-3.00; pigs 3.50-3.60; good and choice 100-130 lbs 3.50-4.00.

PLAN OPENING OF NEW BRIDGE OVER FOX RIVER

Ceremony to Be Held at Kaukauna Structure About the Middle of January

With construction of the new Lawest bridge over the Fox river at Kaukauna rapidly nearing completion plans for a ceremony to be held in conjunction with its opening about the middle of January are being made by a committee recently appointed by Mayor B. W. Fargo. At a meeting there on Dec. 22, the committee will make final plans for the ceremony. William Carnot is chairman of the committee.

Concrete walks have been built on the bridge and a steam process is being used to dry the concrete because of the cold weather. Remaining work to be done includes placing a plank on the roadway and the two halves of the rock-knife draw and placing and painting of several sections of railing. The bridge is built on a series of arches, and is entirely of concrete with the exception of the steel draw.

C. R. Meyer Construction Co., Oshkosh, are the contractors in charge of the work. The cost is approximately $207,000.00. Starting early in April, they have employed 80 men throughout the summer, and at times have employed as many as 110 men. The new bridge replaces an old iron and steel structure, which was removed.

Of the cost of the new structure, the city of Kaukauna has paid $40,000, Outagamie-co $60,000; and the state the remainder. A suggestion of dedicating the new bridge to the fathers and mothers who have made it possible is being considered by the committee. Another suggestion to call it the Lawest Memorial bridge in honor of the dead soldiers and sailors of the World war is also being considered. A speaker will be engaged and following some ceremony on the bridge the program will continue in the high school auditorium.

BUSINESS VOLUME IS ON SAME LEVEL

Little Change Shown During November in Federal Reserve District

Minneapolis, Minn. — (P) — The volume of business in the ninth Federal Reserve district during November showed no significant change from the low level of September and October, the Minneapolis bank has reported.

Most of the business records for the month were below the figure for November of last year, the report said. Bank deposits were 31 per cent lower; the county check clearings index was 26 per cent lower, and decreases occurred in electric power consumption, postal receipts, building permits, flour and linseed product shipments, grain marketing and department store sales.

Freight carloadings in the first three weeks of November were also smaller than in the corresponding weeks last year. Increases occurred in livestock receipts and in building contracts. Business failures were 38 per cent more numerous than in the same month last year. Employment indexes for Minneapolis showed a smaller reduction in demand for labor than usual at this season and, consequently, the adjusted index of employment conditions improved during November.

Farmers' cash income from seven important items declined less than usual between October and November, and the adjusted index of farm income increased for the third suc-

Bridge Nears Completion

Completed at a cost of approximately $200,000, this new Lawest bridge over the Fox river at Kaukauna will be formally opened in January. Plans for the opening and dedication now are being formulated by a committee recently appointed by Mayor B. W. Fargo. The committee chairman is William Carnot.

cessive month. However, the farm income index for November was 32 per cent below the index for the November a year ago.

In spite of cattle receipts at South St. Paul during the month, a figure larger than a year ago, shipments of stock and feeder cattle to the country were smaller than last year.

Farmers were buying only the better grade of feeder cattle. At November prices, beef feeding was on a more profitable basis than hog fattening. Prices of all major farm products in the Northwest were lower than a year ago with the exception of barley and rye.

Estimated value of bread and durum wheat, rye, flax, potatoes, dairy products, and hogs, marketed during the month was $27,499,000 compared with $30,448,000 for the same period in 1930.

MOONEY-BILLINGS CASE REPORT ASKED

Washington — (P) — The senate Monday called upon the president for published reports prepared by Wickham commission experts on the case of Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings.

A resolution sponsored by Senators Cutting, Republican, New Mexico; Walsh, Democrat, Montana, and Costigan, Democrat, Colorado, was adopted without comment.

It seeks the complete information on which the commission based its report last July that the laws under which a new trial was denied in the Mooney-Billings case in San Francisco were "shocking to one's sense of justice."

Mooney and Billings were imprisoned in connection with the preparedness day bombing there in 1916. They are still in prison.

ASKS SENATORS TO WITHHOLD DECISION

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Claims He Can Explain Everything

Washington — (P) — Without waiting for the Nye committee to report, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., has asked the senate to withhold judgment on the results of the investigation into the use of funds against Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 presidential election.

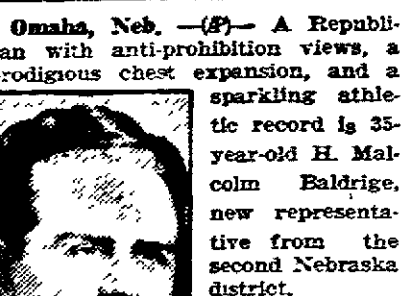

In an open letter to the senators the Bishop Sunday asked that action be taken to secure him opportunity to make a sworn statement, after the courts have passed on his case, for inclusion in the records of the campaign funds investigating committee.

The report is to be presented by Chairman Nye sometime this week. The bishop did not testify in the inquiry, nor did he ask to. Aides of his refused to testify.

In the open letter he complained he had received no reply to letters written the committee about making a sworn statement; that he had decided now not to make this answer until court action was settled, and "...I positively affirm that there is not a single item of testimony (in

WHO'S NEW IN CONGRESS

H. MALCOLM BALDRIGE

Omaha, Neb. — (P) — A Republican with anti-prohibition views, a prodigious chest expansion, and a sparkling athletic record is 35-year-old H. Malcolm Baldrige, new representative from the second Nebraska district.

After his election, Baldrige prepared himself for his work at Washington not in digging through dusty tomes, but on a squash court.

An expert at the game, Baldrige, who for three years held the eastern intercollegiate wrestling championship — heavyweight division — has succeeded in "boiling" his congressional bulk down to a mere 225 pounds.

The new representative served in France in the World war, later coached for two years and then took up law work. His booming voice should be heard often in congress this winter.

Baldrige says he is for temperance and against saloons but favors modification with repeal of the federal dry laws.

PETS REPLACED

Knorrville, Tenn. — John L. Callaway's wire-haired fox terrier disappeared from his home several months ago. Then Mrs. Callaway's Persian cat died under the wheels of a car. Gloom settled upon the Callaway household. Presently, however, a chow dog dropped in on the Callaways and stayed. Then a cat strolled in. The chow had pups and the cat a kitten. The Callaways are lonesome no longer.

Suffered Terribly With Tetter Two Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"I suffered terribly with tetter for two years. It was on my face, back, scalp and arms. The itching and burning were severe and I could not sleep at night. My clothing aggravated the breaking out and it caused disfigurement. I tried different remedies but without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. L. Frazier, 12422 Imperial Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

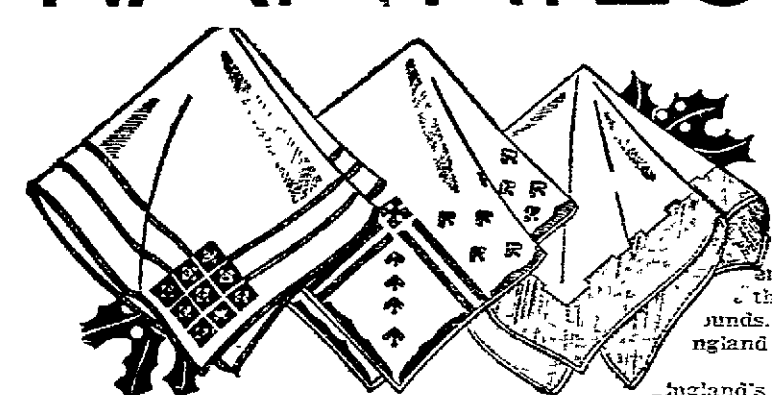

Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

SAFERAY
CLEARS THE WINDSHIELD WITH INFRARED RAYS
SAFERAY is a marvelous little device that generates infra-red rays and projects them through the automobile windshield. All snow, ice, sleet, steam, outside and in, are quickly melted without heating the windshield. Danger of cracking the glass is entirely avoided.

Tests prove that SAFERAY dissolves ice 1/2 of an inch thick, frozen solid on the outside of the windshield, in four minutes in a temperature of 18 below freezing. Safaray is neither a lamp nor a heater. It does not touch the windshield. Easily attached. Inconspicuous. This priceless new safety feature $3.00
